GERMANS CLEARED OUT OF WOODS

British Recapture Several Towns in New Drive East of Cambrai

London, Oct. 24.—Unofficial reports received from the battlefront in France today state that the latest attack of the British Fourth and Third Armies, on the line between Valenciennes and Guise, has yielded 6,000 prisoners.

By International News Service.

London, Oct. 24—(Noon).—Sweeping ahead in the new assault begun yesterday morning east, southeast and northeast of Cambrai, the British have made marked progress, capturing a number of villages from the Germans.

The War Office announced today that the attack was renewed this morning on the whole front between the Scheldt River and the Sambre-et-Oise Canal. The Ecaillon River was crossed at Beaudignies.

Savage fighting was in progress during Wednesday afternoon and evening on the front south of Valenciennes.

The Germans made determined counter-attacks, all of which were repulsed.

All of Raismes wood, a piece of ground of great strategic importance, has been cleared of Germans. The Germans have been driven from Vendegies wood also.

U. S. AVIATOR SCORES HIS 8TH UNOFFICIAL VICTORY

With the American Army Northwest of Verdun, Oct. 23, (Delayed).—Lieutenant Frank O. Hunter of Savannah, Ga., scored his eighth unofficial air victory northwest of Verdun this morning. In the same combat Percy R. Pine of New York city, and William H. Ponder of Lone Wolf, Okla., each shot down an enemy plane, the latter elevating himself to the position of an "ace" by his exploit.

ENEMY COUNTER HEAVILY ON AMERICANS

With the American Army Northwest of Verdun, Oct. 24.—Americans advanced today northeast of Grand Pre and west of Aincreville (between Grand Pre and the Meuse). The Yankees encountered hot fire from machine guns and artillery. Heavy German counter attacks during the night northeast of Grand Pre caused the Americans to yield some ground. It is reported the Germans have begun to evacuate Clery le Grand, thirteen miles east by northeast of Grand Pre.

PEACE RIOTERS USE BOMBS IN MANNHEIM

London, Oct. 24.—"Gigantic peace demonstrations," during which the police fired upon the crowds with machine guns, killing several women, have just taken place in Mannheim, Germany, said a dispatch from The Hague to the Times today.

The series of demonstrations culminated on Friday when a procession marched to the town hall. Machine guns were mounted around the hall and the military police opened fire upon the marchers.

In response the demonstrators threw bombs, killing some of the policemen. So overwhelming was the rush that the police were completely swept aside.

Mannheim is a manufacturing city in Baden, having a population of 150,000. It is the third largest city on the Rhine.

Ukrainian Ministry, Favoring Entente, Resigns

By International News Service.

London, Oct. 24.—The Ukrainian cabinet has resigned, said a German wireless dispatch received here today. Rumania has closed the Danube ports and the ports on the Black Sea. The Ukrainian ministry declared itself in favor of the overthrow of the Bolshevik regime and the cultivation of friendship with the entente.

WILSON'S 'SURRENDER' NOTE FLASHED TO BERLIN

By JOHN EDWIN NEVIN,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Washington, Oct. 24.—Germany will be given the actual armistice terms of the allies. This has already been determined on by the President and the Entente premiers. An official copy of President Wilson's note of last night has been sent to every nation associated with the United States in the war. All will be invited to participate in the discussions which will frame the armistice.

However, before any official action is taken, military and naval chiefs of the nations actively participating in the conflict will themselves agree on the details on which Germany and her allies will be permitted to cease fighting. There already have been some exchanges on the subject.

The supreme war council at Versailles has taken some steps and has outlined a tentative program for guarantees. But it dealt only with some of the angles of the subject.

And further conferences will take place in the near future, at which all the military and naval phases will be debated and an agreement reached. This is made absolutely necessary, officials and diplomats here explained, by the political developments within Germany.

Officials today were well pleased with the text of President Wilson's note. Meagre information reaching Washington indicated that it had made a real hit in the entente capitals, where it was accepted as crystallizing the future unified policy of all the countries at war with Germany.

And officials here professed to be amazed at suggestions from certain quarters that the note needed interpretation. They declared that it

YANKEES WIN IN MANY AIR BATTLES

Washington, Oct. 24.—American aviators yesterday shot down fifteen enemy aeroplanes and one observation balloon on both sides of the Meuse, General Pershing reported today in his communique for yesterday. Three American observation balloons were destroyed and six of our machines are missing.

The text of the communique was as follows:

"October 23. On the battlefront north of Verdun we have made progress at several points in the face of determined resistance.

"In the course of a local attack in the heavily wooded and hilly country east of the Meuse our troops took the Bois Belleau and penetrated the enemy's positions in the Bois d'Etrayes and the Bois de Wavrille, capturing 100 prisoners.

"West of the Meuse, Bantheville has been completely occupied and our line has been established along the ridge northwest of the village. In the course of bitter fighting north of Grand Pre our troops captured 15 prisoners and 8 machine guns.

"Artillery fire has been violent on the whole front, reaching its greatest intensity east of the Meuse and north of the Aire.

"The day has been marked by increased aerial activity on both sides of the Meuse. In the course of many combats our pursuit squadron shot down 15 enemy planes and one observation balloon. Three of our observation balloons were destroyed and six of our machines are missing. Our bombing units dropped five tons of explosives on enemy concentrations points."

BIG DROP IN INFLUENZA CASES.

Influenza reports from eighty-four cities and towns for the twenty-four hours ending at noon show 1,448 new cases and sixty-five deaths. This is much the smallest figure for a long time.

BAKER TO TALK TO SENATE COMMITTEE.

Washington, Oct. 24.—Secretary of War Baker will appear before the Senate Military Affairs Committee tomorrow to give the committee an account of his recent trip to Europe.

KEEP UP WITH THE WAR---FOLLOW THE BOSTON AMERICAN'S WAR MAPS---A NEW WAR MAP EACH DAY

WILSON'S WORDS EXPECTED TO HASTEN KAISER'S DOOM

POWERFUL WEAPON FOR GERMAN SOCIALISTS

spoke for itself and that no further statements dealing with its text would be issued.

IN HANDS OF THE KAISER.

The note already is in the hands of the Kaiser and his advisers. At the request of the Swiss charge, it was sent by wireless last night to the big German wireless station at Nauen, which sent out the original text of the German note. At the same time, the official copy was put on the cables for Berlin, via Berne.

The very fact that at the moment the text of the note was being made public late last night by the State Department, the White House issued the correspondence between Secretary of War Baker and President Wilson, showing a total of more than two million Americans overseas, is highly significant.

It was designed, officials very freely admitted, to emphasize to the ruling class in Berlin and to the German people at home that the efforts of the United States were in no way being slackened. And there is no doubt that this statement will make a much deeper impression on the military "masters" of the German people than any utterances in the President's reply.

MAY END EXCHANGES.

Diplomats here today believed that the diplomatic exchanges were at an end for a time. They based this belief on the address of Chancellor Prince Maximilian to the Reichstag, in which he made it plain that his policy was entirely for a peace by negotiation.

However, a few officials also said that in view of the grave political crisis now existing in Germany the government, in an effort to save its face, may make another effort to argue questions of surrender.

The outstanding fact in the President's note today was his comment on the statement that the government had been liberalized and put under the control of the people themselves. The President, in naming for the first time the "King of Prussia" in any state document of the present war, pointed out that his authority to control the policy of the empire is unimpaired while the determining initiative still remains with those who have hitherto been the masters of Germany.

ON BASIS OF SURRENDER.

And he says that if the United States and its allies must deal with these military masters they can do so only on the basis of surrender. This utterance is calculated, officials said today, to have a very powerful effect on the agitation within Germany for a complete overthrow of the existing German government.

How powerful this sentiment must be was best indicated by the fact that the Socialist leaders have been able to openly demand that the Kaiser retire and permit the formation of a responsible German government.

Officials will watch with the deepest interest whether the German government now will allow the exact words of the President to become known to the people of Germany. If they do the reply is expected to create a profound impression everywhere. But judging by past performances it is considered unlikely that the note will reach the people except in a garbled form.

LEAVES GERMANY HELPLESS.

Some of the Congressional leaders, notably Senator Lodge, were inclined today to criticize the President's course in passing the German appeal for an armistice along to the entente allies. This criticism, administration leaders said, was unjust. They denied with emphatic heat that any such action was in the nature of weakening the position of the United States or calculated in the slightest degree to embarrass the allies.

The President very plainly states that no armistice can be considered which does not leave the United States and allied forces in such a position that they can enforce all arrangements entered into and which does not leave the German army in such a position that a renewal of hostilities is impossible.

And all that the President actually has done, officials say, is to pass along to the allies the request that the military control frame and submit a form of armistice. If the military control believes that such an act would be inadvisable at the present time, it easily can say so, officials point out, and then all that the allies need do is to officially refuse the armistice.

INDORSED BY ENTENTE.

One thing which the President's latest note seems to have cleared up is that from now on the world will find unity of political action by the allies. The President, in framing his latest note, admittedly consulted with the entente capitals.

While the text of the note was not sent out for approval, the sentiments contained theren were communicated to the premiers of Great Britain, France and Italy, and endorsed by them. It wa because of this that the note was held back for publication. Originally it was not expected that it would not be made public until today, but when the final cables of approval reached the White House last night the document was released immediately, realizing the suspense was having a bad effect on public sentiment throughout the United States.

For some time past there has been a strong feeling, both in England and France, that a supreme diplomatic council, formed along the lines which control the supreme war council which sits at Versailles, should be created. One of the leading advocates of such a plan is Lord Northcliffe, and during the last few days he declared, in discussing this question:

A PERIL TO BE AVERTED.

"In the hour of military trial no personal susceptibilities were allowed to stand in the way of the unification of military command, and none can now be allowed to impede unification of the allied peace purposes. I shudder to think what would be the result were the representatives of the people who have borne so nobly the trials and sacrifices of this great war to enter with divided councils or divergent aspirations into negotiations with a subtle, cunning, unscrupulous enemy. That peril must at all costs be avoided, and if the associated peoples have their way it will be avoided."

Lord Northcliffe also made it plain that he and the men who believed with him would "rejoice to think America was willing to accept her full share in the inevitable trusteeship of the German colonies."

The President has had this point of view impressed upon him from many sources in various forms during the last two weeks. He is understood fully to realize the necessity for diplomatic unity of action and the fact that in drafting the latest reply he took occasion to fully develop the opinions of the various allied premiers indicated that he believed the United States should take action along that line. It is not believed, however, that any diplomatic council will be formed. Rather, it is believed that President Wilson has under way a plan which will enable the United States to act immediately on all matters of diplomatic character, entirely obviating delays which might cause embarrassment.

TURKEY SOON TO QUIT.

Officials said today the President's attitude was certain to have an important bearing on the situation both in Austria-Hungary and in Turkey. Turkey, it is known, has simply been kept from surrendering unconditionally by the appeals of the German officials, who have told the newly formed cabinet that it would be possible to arrange an advantageous peace only if the central powers maintained an unbroken diplomatic front.

The failure to secure advantageous terms will have a depressing effect in Constantinople, and officials believe that within a very few days the Ottoman government will sue directly for peace through the British commander, General Allenby.

Austria-Hungary already is being split up into states, and the downfall of the Hapsburg government is believed to be in sight. The President's reply not only is expected to hasten disintegration, but is also expected to have a strong effect on the new peace proposals that are being framed in Vienna.

PROMPT HANDLING OF FREIGHT IS REQUESTED

Because of the great strain placed upon the railroads of the country through the movement of troops, supplies and equipment, Stuart W. Webb, New England region advisor of the War Industries Board, has received instructons from Washington to ask manufacturers in this region to load and unload all bulk freight promptly, not only that demurrage might be avoided, but to permit of the greatest amount of tonnage being moved with the least friction. The movement of troops and war materials is receiving the first consideraton from the railroad administration. Mr. Webb further asks that shippers accord railroad operators every assistance possible.

Text of President's Note to Germany

Washington, Oct. 24.—Following is the reply of President Wilson to the last German peace note:

From the Secretary of State to the Charge d'Affaires ad, interim in charge of German interests in the United States:

Department of State, Oct. 23, 1918: Sir—I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your note of the 22d transmitting a communication under date of the 20th from the German government and to advise you that the President has instructed me to reply thereto as follows:

Having received the solemn and explicit assurance of the German government that it unreservedly accepts the terms of peace laid down in his address to the Congress of the United States on the 8th of January, 1918, and the principles of settlement enunciated in his subsequent addresses, particularly the address of the 27th of September, and that it desires to discuss the details of their application, and that this wish and purpose emanated, not from those who have hitherto dictated Germany's policy and conducted the present war on Germany's behalf, but from ministers who speak for the majority of the Reichstag and for an overwhelming majority of the German people; and having received also the explicit promise of the present German government that the humane rules of civilized warfare will be observed both on land and sea by the German armed forces, the President of the United States feels that he cannot decline to take up with the governments with which the government of the United States is associated the question of an armistice.

He deems it his duty to say again, however, that the only armistice he would feel justified in submitting for consideration would be one which would leave the United States and the powers associated with her in a position to enforce any arrangements that may be entered into and to make a renewal of hostilities on the part of Germany impossible.

The President has, therefore, transmitted his correspondence with the present German authorities to the governments with which the government of the United States is associated as a belligerent, with the suggestion that, if those governments are disposed to effect peace upon the terms and principles indicated, their military advisers and the military advisers of the United States be asked to submit to the governments associated against Germany the necessary terms of such an armistice as will fully protect the interests of the peoples involved and insure to the associated governments the unrestricted power to safeguard and enforce the details of the peace to which the German government has agreed, provided they deem such an armistice possible from a military point of view.

Should such terms of armistice be suggested, their acceptance by Germany will afford the best concrete evidence of her unequivocal acceptance of the terms and principles of peace from which the whole action proceeds.

The President would deem himself lacking in candor did he not point out in the frankest possible terms the reason why extraordinary safeguards must be demanded. Significant and important as the constitutional changes seem to be which are spoken of by the German foreign secretary in his note of the 20th of October, it does not appear that the principle of a government responsible to the German people has yet been fully worked out or that any guarantees either exist or are in contemplation that the alterations of principle and of practice now partially agreed upon will be permanent.

Moreover, it does not appear that the heart of the present difficulty has been reached. It may be that future wars have been brought under the control of the German people, but the present war has not been; and it is with the present war that we are dealing. It is evident that the German people have no means of commanding the acquiescence of the military authorities of the empire in the popular will; that the power of the King of Prussia to control the policy of the empire is unimpaired; that the determining initiative still remains with those who have hitherto been the masters of Germany.

Feeling that the whole peace of the world depends now on plain speaking and straightforward action, the President deems it his duty to say, without any attempt to soften what may seem harsh words, that the nations of the world do not and cannot trust the word of those who have hitherto been the masters of German policy, and to point out once more that in concluding peace and attempting to undo the infinite injuries and injustices of this war the government of the United States cannot deal with any but veritable representatives of the German people who have been assured of a genuine constitutional standing as the real rulers of Germany.

If it must deal with the military masters and the monarchical authorities of Germany now, or if it is likely to have to deal with them later in regard to the international obligations of the German empire, it must demand, not peace negotiations, but surrender. Nothing can be gained by leaving this essential thing unsaid.

Accept, sir, the renewed assurances of my high consideration.

ROBERT LANSING.

Mr. Frederick Oederlin,
Charge d'Affaires of Switzerland ad interim.
In charge of German interests in the United States.

TWO CHARGED WITH COAL FRAUDS

A new attempt to rob Boston citizens of their "full weight" coal has been discovered, it is said, by inspectors of the sealer of weights and measures office, City Hall. Two inspectors concealed themselves in the office of a prominent coal company, and as a result summonses have been served on two.

Jail sentences will be urged for these and all other alleged "short weight" dealers by Sealer Charles B. Wooley, who has begun his Fall drive against the profiteers. One of the men will appear in court tomorrow on an old charge. In a few days the other will appear charged with cheating a synagogue of two tons and 100 pounds if coal.

Inspectors James A. Sweeney and John J. Ryan of the sealer's office allege one of the accused men went to the coal pocket with his accomplice, ordered two lots of coal, one for 3,900 pounds and one for 4,100 pounds. This coal was delivered and two certificates of weight given them. Shortly after, it is claimed, one of the men returned to the pocket and stated that the sealer had not given him the slip for the 4,100 pounds.

The sealer consulted with one of the inspectors in hiding and was advised to issue another slip, but to mark it "duplicate." This was done. The inspectors then trailed the two wagons.

A short distance away from the coal pocket, the inspectors allege, the two wagons were met by an empty wagon. The two full wagons contributed a part of their load to the empty wagon, it is declared, and the three wagons drove to the Synagogue and delivered what it is said the janitor believed was two 4,100-pound lots and a 3,900-pound lot, when in reality, it is claimed, they delivered but one 4,1000-lot and a 3,900-pound lot. In this manner, it is charged, they cheated the Synagogue out of 4,1000 pounds. They had three certified slips for two loads of coal, according to the inspectors.

ARMY NEEDS BUTTERNUT SHELLS FOR GAS MASKS

Colonel William C. Cannon, department quartermaster of the northeast, No. 99 Chauncy street, calls upon all to help in getting hickory nuts and butternuts. "They are wanted now; everyone connected with the farm, everyone gathering nuts, should be told what these nutshells do in making gas masks," explained the colonel. "Don't let any nut or nutshells be buried in the snow."

U-BOATS SINK 554,000 U. S. TONNAGE

Ship Production Held Up by Grip—15,500,000 Tons Under Way

By International News Service.

Washington, Oct. 24.—Since the beginning of the war the United States has lost only 554,000 deadweight tons of shipping due to submarine activities, Charles Piez, general manager of the Shipping Board, told the Senate Appropriations Committee in testimony made public this afternoon.

"We lost very little American tonnage until April this year, and we have lost 500,000 tons since that time," Piez said. "We had very little loss last year because we had very little tonnage on the Atlantic."

The Shipping Board has underway or requisitioned and finished about 15,500,000 tons, he added. This shipping will cost about $19 a ton.

The influenza epidemic seriously interfered with October ship production, Piez said, but after the first of the year 500,000 tons will be turned out each month.

10,000 Relatives of Soldiers to Appear in Greatest Motion Picture

"SMILES ACROSS THE SEA," the greatest motion picture undertaking in the world, will be staged in Boston beginning Wednesday, October 30, at 3 p. m. A gathering of 10,000 relatives of soldiers overseas is expected.

The Parade-ground on Boston Common, near Charles street, has been selected for the first installment of Boston's part of the 1,000-reel movie. Other sections of the country have already been filmed.

By special arrangement with the United States Committee on Public Information, the hundreds of reels of moving pictures of relatives of our fighting forces will be shown behind the lines in France and Belgium.

Families and sweethearts of boys "over there" will march in dress parade before the clicking camera and be reproduced "as big as life" in the films sent overseas.

This is a personal invitation to all relatives of soldiers overseas living in Wards 5, 6, 7 and 8 under the jurisdiction of Draft Divisions 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8, to come to the Common next Wednesday and be "taken" by the Hearst movie-man, who will make the first Boston films in the big serial. Relatives residing in the North, South and West Ends and the Back Bay are included in the above invitation.

Read the daily AMERICAN for further details, and watch for the announcement of your district.

There will be NO CHARGE to the relatives of fighters for this opportunity to send their smiles of encouragement 3,000 miles to the frontiers of freedom. William Randolph Hearst will assume all costs and all responsibility as a patriotic duty.

SOLDIERS' RELATIVES are asked:

To WEAR THEIR BEST, so that they will look comfortable.

To SMILE, so that they will look happy.

To BRING THE BABIES, so that their fathers can see how they are.

"Close-ups" will be made of the babies born since their fathers went to the front.

REMEMBER that our SLOGAN is GOOD CHEER, and that this message can only "get across" through your co-operation.

In case of rain the pictures will be made the next day at the same time and place.

STERN OBSTACLES STILL CONFRONT U. S. ARMY

Where's the toughest gnawing on a whole "beef critter?"

The neck.

That's the gist of the situation with our American forces west of the Meuse river in France.

Every dispatch that comes out of that stretch, where the Germans are fighting with the ferocity born of desperation, emphasizes the terrific military obstacles that have confronted and still confront the American soldiers.

The manner in which Pershing's troops battered their way up through the Argonne forest has been repeatedly cited by war correspondents and by military experts of metropolitan newspapers, domestic and foreign, as the greatest victory that Pershing and his men have won so far and as one of the most amazing feats of the war.

TERRAIN DIFFICULT.

Three chief features have made and still make the American problem west of the Meuse one of the stiffest of the whole western front. These are:

1—The rugged nature of the ground, lending itself easily to defensive work.

2—The powerful defences with which the whole territory was fairly stuffed.

3—The rush of Germans to hold this region at any cost, in order to protect vital communications.

The suddenness with which Pershing's troops flattened out the St. Mihiel salient in September and carried the battle line "Northwest of Toul" up to within a dozen miles of Metz, dismayed the Germans and electrified the Allies by its dash and completeness.

But the task west of the Meuse has been infinitely harder. From the German standpoint the Argonne forest was the last word in an impregnable position. It could not be taken.

KRIEMHILDE LINE SMASHED.

The American movement there began nearly a month ago. Since then they have won the Argonne forest, have fought, clawed and ground their way ahead at heavy cost, have smashed through the famous Kriemhilde line at its western end and have put the whole Metz-Mesieres-Luxemburg railroad system in danger.

In doing this the Americans have met and crippled a score of German divisions. These included three of the celebrated Prussian Guard divisions, the very flower of the German army; also the 28th Division, famous as the "Kaiser's Own."

The Argonne forest is a range of heavily wooded hills extending north and south for about thirty miles, from Thiaucourt up to Grand Pre.

The battle line, before the American advance began, ran east and west through the forest, about twelve miles below Grand Pre. The German trenches and defensive wire entanglements formed a belt between two and three miles deep in some stretches.

MACHINE GUNS THICK.

The enemy studded the place with machine guns. Thousands of these death distributors were put behind rocks and trees, in holes and every other conceivable shelter. The district was plastered with "pill-boxes." Every road, path and trail was covered with machine gun fire, while the artillery parks farther back had the exact range of all positions along which the Americans were to advance.

On account of the innumerable machine guns and the exactness of their range the Americans were forced to weave their way along under cover of darkness, cutting the wire entanglements with pliers while Germans fired upon them constantly.

It was piece-meal work, with the enemy resisting stubbornly every inch of ground. Orders found on German prisoners contained repeated instructions from the commanders to hold this territory at any cost on account of the vital necessity, from the German viewpoint, of protecting the railroad communications in the rear.

The Americans had been told that the Argonne Forest could not be taken. So they took it.

RECREATION PLACES.

The Germans were so confident that the Argonne would resist invasion that they had used it literally for a military picnic ground ever since the Teuton advance swept southward there. The German High Command established recreation and rest places there for war-worn divisions. The advancing Americans found theatres, bowling alleys, dining halls, clubs and sleeping quarters for German officers and other structures. These were fashioned of concrete and represented an outlay of huge sums of money and great labor.

The dauntless spirit which enabled some of our American troops to smash the St. Mihiel salient on the run, so to speak, enabled those west of the Meuse to grind their way up through the Argonne.

The way to fight—and win—a war is summed up in a sentence in a letter written by Sergeant-Major George Gilbody of the 101st Infantry after the St. Mihiel salient was flattened.

"Gil" was formerly on the city staff of the Boston AMERICAN. In a letter to one of his friends he said:

"We are still going strong at the Boche's neck and with nothing but fight, fight, fight. Our courage and nerve are, nevertheless, at a high pitch, and we are ready for any further service required of us."

"Gil" said it—"At the Boche's neck."

BOSTON SENDS SERUM TO SAN FRANCISCO

by personal messenger. The fastest train across the continent to the relief of San Francisco is none too short a time in which to provide you with our assistance.

"Mr. Moore carries to you and to the citizens of San Francisco the best wshes and most heartfelt sympathy of Boston, her citizens, and myself."

As at the time of the earthquake Boston rose to the occasion when the great port of the Pacific called for outside aid, in less than twenty-four hours after Mayor James Rolfe of San Francisco had wired Boston for assistance, the requested aid was on its way across the continent and a message of sympathy was speeding in the same direction.

32 NEW CASES IN BOSTON.

Thirty-two new cases of influenza were reported to the health department today. There were nine deaths, eight from the grip and one from pneumonia. Six new cases were reported in the First Naval District with one death in the Boston section. No deaths or new cases were reported at the army headquarters at No. 99 Chauncey street.

Mr. Moore left on the 12:30 train from the South Station with a 300-pound box containing 100,000 "shots" of the Leary anti-influenza vaccine. The speed with which Secretary Moore prepared for his journey is probably unequalled in the histroy of City Hall.

Yesterday a telegram from Mayor Rolfe of San Francisco asking for 100,000 doses of the Leary vaccine was received at City Hall. Mayor Peters was out of town and the request was turned over to Dr. Timothy Leary at the Tufts Medical School. Dr. Leary, Dr. F. H. Dunbar and their assistant worked practically all night preparing the vaccine.

PACKED IN LARGE TRUNK.

At 10:55 today their job was finished, and the vacine was packed in a large trunk, ready for shipment. Dr. Dunbar hailed a passing auto truck, presed it into service, and took the trunk to the South Station. Meanwhile Dr. Leary had consulted with District Attorney Pelletier, and the latter was on his way to City Hall. He prevailed upon Secretary Moore at 11:15 to go across the continent as personal representative of Mayor Peters.

Assistant District Attorney Abraham Webber had meantime checked the vaccine-filled trunk and purchased Mr. Moore's tickets. He also, through Superintendent J. B. Hammel of the Boston & Albany road, had all red tape shipped, to facilitate Mr. Moore's trip, and the rapid transportation of the vaccine.

Dr. Dunbar, who had ridden down from the Back Bay on the motor truck wth the trunk, supervised the operation of getting it aboard the train.

At 12:20 Mr. Moore arrived at the station, to meet the members of his family with a hastily packed suitcase. And promptly at 12:20 the train pulled out, bearing the 100,000 "shots" of the much needed vaccine to the stricken cty of San Francisco.

BRITISH ENTHUSIASTIC OVER WILSON'S DEMANDS

London, Oct. 24 (1:52 p. m.).—The British press and public today read President Wilson's reply to Germany with enthusiastic approval. Unusual activity at Whitehall affords an indication of the speed and activity with which the next move is to be made.

"Another lightning-like note, swift and shattering, took London by surprise," declared the Star, commenting on the American executive's reply and crystallizing the general impression, which the Wilson note created in London.

"The note is a wonderful contrast with the verbal entanglements spread by Prince Maximilian," says the Evening News. "President Wilson's reply goes through the German chancellor's diplomatic front with the directness of a tank. It also leaves a path, if not for peace, at least of a clear understanding between the free nations of the world and the Germans."

WILSON'S REPLY TO PEACE PLEA COMMENDED

Commendations of President Wilson's reply to the German peace offer were freely made in the city today. Many prominent men expressed themselves as thoroughly in accord with the President's ultimatum to the Kaiser. Here are some of the expressions of opinion given to the AMERICAN today:

RABBI M. M. EICHLER—I think the President has finally come out in plain words to express the thought of every American citizen, that America is not willing to deal with the Kaiser except to ask him to surrender in no uncertain words.

LEMUEL H. MURLIN, president of Boston University—President Wilson's reply is a masterpiece of diplomacy. It will be pleasing to the allies and very dsappointing to Germany. Germany will not be brought to a righteous peace except at the point of a sword.

REV. SAMUEL G. BABCOCK, D. D., suffragan bishop of the Episcopal diocese of Massachusetts — There are two words that ring true in this world war. These words are:

"Unconditional Surrender."

Every one deplores more or less the writing of notes. The public are willing to sacrifice their loved ones for these two words. As far as the message of President Wilson implies this I am in full accord with it.

DR. JAMES L. BARTON, Secretary American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions—As I read the President's reply, it seems to me that the whole meat is in the end of it. Nothing but unconditional surrender can be considered, and if the German army is to evacuate Belgium and France, it should do so, leaving all its munitions behind.

ALBERT P. LANGTRY, Secretary of State—I believe the President should stand for unconditional surrender, and I think the latest note comes nearer to this than any of the others. Consequently I can heartily endorse it.

JOHN W. WEEKS, United States Senator—I have not had time to thoroughly study the President's reply to Germany, and I would rather not say anything.

CALVIN COOLIDGE, Lieutenant-Governor—The main point of the note as I read it is this: If we have got to deal with the German military commanders our terms are "Unconditional Surrender." I am in hearty accord with that view. We can't negotiate with them. We attempted it before when we undertook to reform the things they were doing on land and sea. They made promises, but there seems to be no truth in them. If we must deal with the military autocracy we should apply the "force, force, force," that President Wilson has spoken of.

JAMES J. STORROW, Fuel Administrator of Massachusetts—The President's last note sounds good to me. I am in favor of unconditional surrender. We have got to prove not merely to these Germans, but to their children's children, that plunder wars don't pay.

ROGER W. BABSON, Statistician and Economist—"Fine! On a par with all his notes. A wonderful document. From my correspondence with prominent and representative people in France, England and Italy I find that President Wilson is the one man to whom all the nations are looking, that he is regarded as the greatest man in the world today.

BERNARD J. ROTHWELL, former president of the Chamber of Commerce—The President's replies to Germany, studied in sequence, display the deliberate process of revealing to the German people the fact that they are beaten and must acknowledge it. He has thus made it impossible for the German autocracy, or militarism, to save one shred of its pretence of invincibility and of achieving peace by compromise.

GENERAL HUGH BANCROFT—I am one of a hundred million people who are glad that the word "surrender" has finally been used in our negotiations with Germany.

CONGRESSMAN RICHARD OLNEY—President Wilson's latest reply to Germany strongly emphasizes the previous ultimatum laid down by the allied nations "in surrender without parleying." The President again adroitly avoids the trap set for the allied nations by Prussian diplomacy, and the evidence seems to be clear that no move is made by President Wilson except through the knowledge and unanimous consent and approval of the allied State Departments.

HUNGARY WILL ASK WILSON FOR PEACE

Paris, Oct. 24.—Reports current in Budapest and transmitted through Swiss news sources today are to the effect that Hungary will shortly apply directly to the United States and the entente governments for peace and an armistice.

It is stated further that both in Hungary and in Austria the idea of unconditional surrender is becoming generally acceptable as the only way to avoid the coming Winter's famine and misery.

The Austrian government, however, intends to reply further to the recent note of President Wilson. It is said that the government of Emperor Carl will refuse to negotiate with the Czecho-Slovaks' representatives in Paris and Washington, but will agree to consult those in Austria.

The reply will also state that political reconstitution of Austria cannot be achieved rapidly, and that an armistice should not depend upon its completion.

WATERTOWN GIRL ASKS $10,000 FOR INJURIES

BRITISH WIDEN ATTACK TO 30 MILES

Thun and [illegible] have been taken.

The text of the official report follows:

"Sharp fighting continued yesterday afternoon and during the evening on the battlefront south of Valenciennes.

"We drove the enemy from Vendegies wood and captured the villages of Beaudignies, Neuville and Salesches.

"We secured a crossing of the Ecaillon River at Beaudignies.

"At the close of the day the enemy counter-attacked vigorously opposite Vendegies, with artillery fire strongly supporting the infantry. The attacks were repulsed.

"This morning our attack was renewed on the whole front between the Oise River and the Sambre-et-Oise Canal."

"North of Valenciennes we cleared the enemy from the Raismes forest and captured the villages of Thun and [illegible].

"There was strong local fighting also west of Tournai, but without any material change in the situation."

More Than 6,000 Germans, Including Many Alsatians, Captured in British Drive

By JOHN T. PARKERSON,

International News Service Staff Correspondent.

With the British Army on the Western Battlefront, Oct. 24 (9:30 a. m.).—More than 6,000 prisoners were taken in the new British smash which commenced yesterday morning and gradually extended until the troops today were fighting over a front of 45,000 yards (more than twenty-five miles).

The Germans attempted to concentrate a large force in Bois de Mormal and northwards, but the British turned their artillery against the roadways, smashing the transports. The German losses were very heavy. Many Alsatians were among the prisoners taken.

Denain and other towns which the Germans are shelling are filled with civilians. Most of them are women and children.

The Germans dropped some shells on Le Cateau killing several persons.

The Germans are reported to be flooding the district northeast of Valenciennes by cutting canal dikes in an effort to stem the allied advance.

The British spent the night in "mopping up" Bousies, Catillon and other towns and cleaning out machine-gun nests.

The British began their attack in see-saw fashion. For instance, one assault was begun at 1:20 in the morning, followed by others at twenty and thirty minutes apart. Thus the whole German line was thrown into confusion.

The Germans tried to concentrate, but could not tell where the next attack would fall.

In their advance the British were confronted by numerous mines set off by delayed action fuses and other deadly traps, but they have continued to push on steadily.

Furious resistance was met with during the day, but it died down later.

Serbians Retake Third Largest Copper Mine in the World

London, Oct. 24.—Serbian troops that are advancing northward through Serbia in the Morava valley, have captured the ridge of Rakovitza and the town of [illegible], said official advices received here today.

In Northeastern Serbia the allied forces have captured a copper mine which is the third biggest in the world.

The Germans (during the Austro-German occupation of Serbia) worked the mine with 10,000 [illegible]. The works cover ten miles.

BRITISH CLEAR FOREST OF ENEMY

By FRANK CHARLTON

International News Service Cable Editor.

The British renewed their attack today on a twenty-five-mile front between the section of the Scheldt River (or the Escaut Canal, as it is also known in northern France) and the canal linking up the Oise and Sambre rivers.

This front lies northeast and southwest of Cambrai and embraces the all-important region south of Valenciennes where Field Marshal Haig is driving in a north-easterly direction to outflank the German troops holding the line north of Valenciennes.

All of the Raismes forest, a stretch of wooded land of vast strategic importance lying north of Valenciennes, has now been cleared of Germans. A number of villages have fallen also.

The British have met with increased German resistance and a number of counter attacks were delivered, but all were crushed. The Ecaillon River has been crossed at Beaudignies, sixteen miles northeast of Cambrai.

The British have advanced twenty-two miles east of Douai and are almost in Conde. The Raismes forest was the Germans' chief natural barrier defending Conde.

Conde is a position of much importance, owing to the large number of highways that enter the town. It is on the railway line linking up Mons, Bavay and Valenciennes.

The allied advance in Belgium has apparently slowed down, with the British, French and Belgians utilizing the temporary lull to link up and organize their new gains, especially the bridgehead positions. The French are steadily extending their gains along the Serre River northeast of Laon, but are meeting with obstinate resistance from German rear guards.

While the fighting on the "All-American" front northwest of Verdun is not of a spectacular character, the advances that are steadily accruing are of the utmost importance.

The Americans were confronted by a number of fortified hills and woodlands, which bristled with machine guns. These are falling steadily before the persistent pressure of General Pershing's gallant armies.

The Germans are employing the cream of their army in an effort to stem the American onrush, but the seasoned veterans have proved unequal to the occasion. The Americans have pushed northward along the Meuse River until they are nearly fourteen miles north of Verdun, and are gradually approaching Dun-sur-Meuse, an important German stronghold.

French Gain in Crossing Oise Canal in Spite of Heavy Counter-Attacks

By International News Service.

Paris, Oct. 24 (Noon).—The French have forced a crossing of the Oise Canal east of Grand Verly, the War Office announced today in the following communique:

"On the front of the Oise River we have crossed the canal and hold the Eastern bank despite enemy counter-attacks. There has been severe fighting in the region bordering on the railway north of Mesbrecourt.

"We have extended our lines north of Nizy le Comte in night fighting.

"There was activity on the part of the artillery on both sides on the plateau east of Vouziers last night."

EBEN F. GODFREY OF AMERICAN STAFF DEAD

Circulation Auditor Claimed by Pneumonia Following Attack of Influenza

Eben F. Godfrey, circulation auditor of the Boston AMERICAN, died early today at the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital of pneumonia. He was taken sick three weeks ago with influenza, which about ten days ago developed into pneumonia. His entire family, consisting of his wife and three children, have been ill, and although Mrs. Godfrey and one of the children have recovered, two of the little ones are still seriously sick.

Mr. Godfrey, one of the most valued men of the circulation department, upon whose shoulders rested tremendously heavy responsibilities, came to the AMERICAN eight years ago, being employed as a clerk in the circulation auditing department. Two years ago his dependability, accuracy and unstinted labor won him the position of circulation auditor. He was popular with his co-workers, his superiors and his subordinates, and will be deeply mourned.

He leaves a wife and three children, residing at No. 716 East Sixth street, South Boston. Funeral arrangements are being made.

CHARLESTOWN BOY DYING FROM AUTO INJURIES

Stanley Rydwaski, eight, of Beach street, Charlestown, is dying at the Relief Hospital from injuries received when he was struck by an automobile on Bunker Hill street near Medford. According to the police, the boy jumped from the sidewalk in front of an automobile owned by the Crandall Engineering Company and operated by James Crandall of Sprague street, Malden. The front right wheel passed over the boy's body.

COTTON PRICE WILL NOT BE FIXED, BARUCH THINKS

Washington, Oct. 24.—It may not be necessary to fix cotton prices, was the opinion expressed by Chairman Baruch, of the War Industries Board in commenting on the cotton situation. He said that the substitution of lower grades would of itself solve the problem of regulating the supply without requiring the board to establish prices.

Concerning wool, Mr. Baruch was hopeful that arrangements could be made, through the use of wooden ships in the South American trade, to include imports of wool for civilian allocation as well as for the military.

GRIP CUTS OFF 191,074 TONS OF CAL IN WEEK

Washington, Oct. 24.—A reduction due to the influenza epidemic, of 191,074 tons in the output of anthracite in Pennsylvania during the week alone, today caused the Fuel Administration to appeal to Surgeon-General Blue of the public health service for immediate aid in combatting the disease among the anthracite miners.

PRIEST FINED $50 FOR IGNORING HEALTH BOARD

Sanford, Me., Oct. 24.—Rev. Joseph O. Casavant, pastor of the Notre Dame Catholic Church in Springvale, was fined $50 by Judge Juan V. Tucker in the Municipal Court on the charge of having kept his church open Sunday, October 20, for two masses, after being ordered to close by the Board of Health because of the influenza epidemic.

An appeal to the January term of the Supreme Court at Saco was taken.

Fr. Casavant contends that the civil law in this connection is unconstitutional, inasmuch as it affects the freedom of religious worship.

Clothes-Service to the Community

Every peace-time work must, in these stirring times, give way to the one essential task of winning the war. Clothes-making is no exception. Even though the need for clothes is accounted one of the three fundamental human necessities (food, shelter, clothing), still civilian clothes-making must yield to the prior needs of the army and navy.

¶ Much as this complicates the problem of serving one's civilian trade, no patriotic clothing maker, we feel sure, would have it otherwise. As for ourselves, our military tailoring experience during three American wars has put us in the position to respond promptly and effectively to the demands of Uncle Sam.

¶ Perhaps the reader will be interested, and surely we may be pardoned, if we recite a few of the things which the House of Morse has been proud to do for the cause of American victory:

Equipped the American Ambulance Field Service, overseas, with uniforms.

Outfitted — completely — New England's Majority, at the great Plattsburg camp.

Provided ten thousand overcoats for the Massachusetts State Guard.

Organized, equipped and manned two huge daylight shops for the manufacture of uniforms for the Army.

¶ And, we may say in conclusion, and with all due modesty, that, in the awards of last week, we were designated as one of the twenty-six firms in America CHOSEN on merit by the Government to make uniforms for officers of the United States Army.

Brer Rabbit Saves Thousands From Sugar Worries

THE man who could develop a real "substitute" for sugar would make a mint of money in a day. But it can't be done.

Many people call Brer Rabbit a "substitute" for sugar. It is not.

Brer Rabbit real New Orleans Molasses is practically sugar itself. It is made from sugar cane—like sugar—and contains a large amount of real sugar.

Sugar only sweetens—it has no flavor. Brer Rabbit not only sweetens but flavors.

In all kinds of cooking and baking; for stewing prunes, dried apples, peaches and other dried fruits; for baking apples, follow the example of thousands of housewives and forget your sugar worries — use Brer Rabbit Molasses.

Brer Rabbit is absolutely pure and wholesome; rich and delicious; health-giving and economical. And there is lots of it at all good grocers.

For the Children

Youngsters naturally crave molasses. Years ago sliced bread and molasses was part of the daily diet of children.

Gold Label Brer Rabbit Molasses gives to the child the elements the young growing body needs. Brer Rabbit is absolutely pure—therefore, wholesome, palatable and strengthening.

Doctors will tell you what molasses and bread means to children.

Besides it saves sugar and cuts the butter bill.

There Are Two Kinds of Brer Rabbit Molasses

Both are Absolutely Pure New Orleans Molasses

GOLD LABEL Brer Rabbit is mild in flavor, light in color, and is delicious for table use—as a spread for pancakes, waffles, biscuits, etc. It is especially fine for cooking, baking and candy making.

GREEN LABEL Brer Rabbit Molasses is darker in color, slightly stronger in flavor, and is splendid for cooking, baking and candy making. It costs less than the Gold Label.

COL. SHANNON GLAD TO GIVE HIS LIFE

With the American Army Northwest of Verdun, Oct. 23 (Delayed).—"Well, Doc, I have nothing to fear, for I have always led a clean life and I'm glad to give it for my country," were the last words of Lieutenant-Colonel James A. Shannon, a West Point graduate, a true American patsiot and one of the best beloved men of his regiment, and formerly military instructor at Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass.

Shannon was attached to the Twelfth Infantry, and his body lies on the edge of the Argonne forest beneath a little unpainted cross.

I stood today beside that grave amidst a scene of rare autumnal beauty. Many other Americans lie buried nearby and the whole slope is marked by rows of crosses.

The grave of Shannon (everybody called him Jim) was covered with freshly picked wild flowers.

Shannon was a real man and one of the finest athletes that West Point ever produced. He especially distinguished himself as a football player.

COMMANDED REGIMENT.

When the Americans went into Mexico after Villa, Shannon organized a squad of Apache scouts. He went to France as a member of General Pershing's staff, but pleaded for a chance to serve on the firing line and was given command of an infantry regiment.

Shannon's regiment was given a tough part of the line and in the first day of action the West Pointer was shot through the neck. He was told by the surgeon that he must die and it was then that the gallant American said he was ready to give his life for his country. He added:

"My only worry is about my wife. It is hard to leave her. I only wish I could see her to say good-bye. But I am ready to go."

He died a few hours later.

A regimental carpenter made a special cross for Shannon's grave and there were many moist eyes in the regiment when "Jim" was laid to rest.

MANY OTHER GRAVES.

While I stood beside "Jim's" grave soldiers were burying other Americans nearby and erecting tiny crosses over the mounds.

A young chaplain wearing the silver cross on his overseas cap and raincoat and carrying a spiked trench cane came up and paused to study the lettering announcing that Shannon had died of wounds received in action on October 7.

The chaplain—clean cut, prematurely gray and handsome as a movie hero—proved to be the Rev. M. A. Bennett, a Roman Catholic, and formerly curate of St. John's church in South Thirteenth street, Philadelphia.

Chaplain Bennett was just out of the line where he had been spending nights and days in a narrow trench with a single blanket to protect him from the rain and piercing cold. Gas shells and machine gun volleys were sweeping the line all the time.

PRIEST'S TRIBUTE TO TROOPS.

"I never grasped the full meaning of Americanism until I shared the trenches with those youngsters who are helping defend democracy," said Father Bennett. "If the people at home could only see what I have seen! If they could only see the pluck and patience and patriotism of these boys, wet and cold, they would never complain of hardships. They fight and die like Americans and always will. It made me so proud just to see them that I had no thought of discomforts or danger. It was great to be with them.

"There is one class of men in the army which does not get nearly the credit due it and that is the army doctors. It is wonderful to think of the pain and lives they save, working day and night along the personal peril.

"I saw Dr. Russell Hanley work twenty-four hours in an advanced dressing station under a bridge. The place was constantly shelled and gassed but the doctor stuck to his post and toiled to the very verge of exhaustion."

War Veteran's Funeral

The funeral of Burnham M. Holmes, seventy-six, a Civil War veteran, who was killed by an automobile, was held today from his late home, No. 24 Standish avenue, Wollaston. A delegation of G. A. R. veterans from Post No. 88 of Quincy attended.

RESIGNS PASTORATE TO TAKE UP CAMP WORK

Milford, Oct. 24.—Rev. Manford W. Schuh, for many years pastor of Westboro First Baptist Church, has sent his resignation to the church because of his appointment as superintendent of the Church Federation at Camp Devens, Ayer, which he has had the past four monts. He was also president of the Interchurch council, comprising all the Protestant churches of Westboro.

DECLARES HOLLAND IS FOR ENTENTE VICTORY

An Atlantic Port, Oct. 24.—The sentiment of Holland is almost unanimous for an allied victory, according to Dr. W. F. Bax, a Dutch army surgeon, who is here. Dr. Bax has spent two years on the Belgian border. He declared that interned German officers in Holland are forced to go about in groups to protect themselves from personal harm.

CITY LABORERS STRIKE ON EVERETT WORKS

There are sixty idle picks and shovels in Everett today, for the laborers of the city's water and sewer departments have quit work. There seems little possibility of their resuming operations before next Monday, when the city government meets. The men some months since demanded a minimum wage of $3.60 per day. The present minimum is $3. Today the men decided they had waited long enough for the city government to act.

Stein-Bloch

Clothes for Men

Space permits sketching but a few of Stein-Bloch attractive fall and winter styles.

The Saxon

The Ormonde

The Belted Balmore

Stein-Bloch styles—some smart, some conservative, some "between"—but all in good taste.

The English

The York

The Pall Mall

GOOD clothes cost money today—so much as to make it worth while for every man, whatever his station in life, to consider carefully what he gets for his dollars. Below are the critical tests which Stein-Bloch clothes must meet—and pass—before you see them:

Selecting Woolens

UNDER normal conditions, the Stein-Bloch Company scours the world for fabrics. No fabrics are considered too rare or too expensive to go into Stein-Bloch clothes. But many fabrics are found too poor. Only the products of foreign or domestic mills of reputation are ever considered.

Testing Woolens

WHEN it comes to quality or dependability of fabric, the Stein-Bloch Company takes nothing for granted. No matter how famous the mill, each fabric must be severely tested for sun, for rain, for shrinkage, for strength—yes, and even for weight, for Stein-Bloch garments must be neither under, nor over-weight.

Then, not once, but many times, is the cloth examined, inch by inch, and imperfections, if any, circled by chalk so that cutters may cut around it.

Shrinking Woolens

EVERY Stein-Bloch fabric is sponged and cold-water shrunk as soon as received—no matter how vehement the assurances of its maker. And after shrinking, the cloths are allowed to dry naturally. And the canvas and even the tapes are cold-water-shrunk also.

Designing

THERE is an outside and inside designing. An outside which produces the styles, and others, shown at the sides; an inside which assures that the hidden parts shall support this outside style, and make fit and goods look permanent. Stein-Bloch outside styles change with every season. They are advanced, but not extreme; smartness is never carried beyond the confines of good taste.

Stein-Bloch inside style is unchanging—except as occasional improvement is added to what almost seems perfection—the perfection of the most thorough, conscientious making the Company can devise.

Right Making

A SUIT of clothes is like an engine. There must be no weak parts, and all the parts must be fitted carefully together.

Stein-Bloch clothes are built not merely for looks but for work—the working hours when the body is in almost constant motion, and clothes subjected to almost constant strain and stress.

Stein-Bloch clothes are built to withstand this strain. Each of the more than 60 separate and distinct hand-tailoring operations and inspections is performed by a specialist who has been trained by years of practice to do that particular thing better than anybody else. Some of these workers are family groups, which have been working under the Stein-Bloch roof in Rochester for three generations.

The little things that count

ALMOST infinite pains are taken that every detail of making shall be right. Every major tailoring operation is followed at once by hand-pressing, which "proves up" the work. Other examples are the careful matching of trimmings and sewing silk with the colors in the fabric; the exact length of button shanks to facilitate buttoning and to prevent unnecessary pulling at buttonholes; the special reinforcements of pockets to prevent sagging and pulling away; and, most important of all, the hundreds of tiny, invisible stitches in shoulders and collars to provide correct "hang" and make style permanent.

Made-ready clothes of custom quality

WHEREIN do clothes like these differ from the custom tailored products? Custom clothes are cut one at a time; so are Stein-Bloch. Custom clothes are made by skilled tailors; Stein-Bloch clothes are made separately by tailors, with a life-time experience, who could qualify at any shop as custom men. Stein-Bloch clothes have all the ear-marks of the custom product, without the fittings—the waits—and the high prices of custom garments.

Your style, size, fabric, fit—these are all assured in advance. Styles? Here are shown some of them that speak for themselves. Size and fit? "Longs," "Shorts," "Stouts," as well as "Regulars" in each size. Fabrics? Emphatically not the kind you'll meet on every corner! And the lasting style and wear that comes from tailoring—tailoring—tailoring!

We are sole Boston agents for Stein-Bloch Clothes

If the above evidence does not convince you that Stein-Bloch gives surpassing value for your money, the clothes will. Stein-Bloch suits, $30 to $55. Topcoats, $30 to $45. Winter overcoats, $30 to $85

MORGENTHAU HELPS TO FOIL PLOT OF TURKS TO KILL BRITISH ENVOY

Published by special arrangement with the McClure Newspaper Syndicate. Copyright, 1918, by Doubleday, Page & Co. All rights reserved. Copyright in Great Britain, Canada and Australia. All rights reserved for France, Belgium, Holland, Italy, Spain, Russia and the Scandinavian countries.

CHAPTER X. CONTINUED.

Foreigners Fear Turk Atrocities.

On the day that the capitulations were abrogated, Enver appeared at the American Embassy with two autos, one for himself and me, and the other for his adjutants, all of whom were dressed in full uniform. I was pleased that Enver had made the proceeding so spectacular for I wished it to have the widest publicity. On the ride up to the college I told Enver all about these American institutions and what they were doing for Turkey. He really knew very little about them ,and, like most Turks, he half suspected that they concealed a political purpose.

"We Americans are not looking for material advantages in Turkey," I said. "We merely demand that you treat kindly our children, these colleges, for which all the people in the United States have the warmest affection."

I told him that Mr. Cleveland H. Dodge, president of the trustees of Robert College, and Mr. Charles R. Crane, president of the trustees of the Women's College, were intimate friends of President Wilson. "These," I added, "represent what is best in America and the fine altruistic spirit which in our country accumulates wealth and then uses it to found colleges and schools.

MONEY EXCITES CURIOSITY.

"In establishing these institutions in Turkey they are trying, not to convert your people to Christianity, but to help train them in the sciences and arts and so prepare to make them better citizens. Americans feel that the Bible lands have given them their religion and they wish to repay with the best thing America has—its education."

I then told him about Mrs. Russell Sage and Miss Helen Gould, who had made large gifts to the Women's College.

"But where do these people get all the money for such benefactions? Enver asked.

I then entertained him for an hour or so with a few pages from our own "American Nights." I told him how Jay Gould had arrived in New York, a penniless and ragged boy, with a mousetrap which he had invented, and how he had died, almost thirty years afterward, leaving a fortune of about $100,000,000.

I told him how Commodore Vanderbilt had started life as a ferryman and had become America's greatest railroad "magnate"; how Rockefeller had begun his career sitting on a high stool in a Cleveland commission house, earning $6 a week, and had created the greatest fortune that had ever been accumulated by a single man in the world's history.

I told him how the Dodges had become our great "copper kings" and the Cranes our great manufacturers of iron pipe. Enver found these stories more thrilling than any that had ever come out of Bagdad, and I found afterward that he had retold them so frequently that they had reached almost all the important people in Constantinople.

TAKES TEA WITH MRS. GATES.

Enver was immensely impressed also by what I said about the American institutions. He went through all the buildings and expressed his enthusiasm at everything he saw, and he even suggested that he would like to send his brother there. He took tea with Mrs. Gates, wife of President Gates, discussed most intelligently the courses, and asked if we could not introduce the study of agriculture. The teachers he met seemed to be a great revelation.

"I expected to find these missionaries as they are pictured in the Berlin newspapers," he said, "with long hair and hanging jaws, and hands clasped constantly in a prayerful attitude. But here is Dr. Gates, talking Turkish like a native and acting like a man of the world. I am more than pleased, and thank you for bringing me."

We all saw Enver that afternoon in his most delightful aspect. My idea that this visit in itself would protect the college from disturbance proved to have been a happy one. The Turkish Empire has been a tumultuous place in the last four years, but the American Colleges have had no difficulties, either with the Turkish Government or with the Turkish populace.

This visit was only an agreeable interlude in events of the most exciting character. Enver, amiable as he could be on occasion, had deliberately determined to put Turkey in the war on Germany's side. Germany had now reached the point where she no longer cealed her intentions. Once before when I had interfered in the interest of peace, Wangenheim had encouraged my action.

WANGENHEIM REBUFFED.

The reason, as I have indicated, was that, at that time, Germany had wished Turkey to keep out of the war, for the German General staff expected to win without her help. But now Wangenheim wanted Turkey in. As I was not working in Germany's interest, but as I was anxious to protect American institutions I still kept urging Enver and Talaat to keep out. This made Wangenheim angry. "I thought that you were a neutral?" he now exclaimed.

"I thought that you were—in Turkey," I answered.

Toward the end of October, Wangenheim was leaving nothing undone to start hostilities; all he needed now was a favorable occasion.

Even after Germany had closed the Dardanelles, the German Ambassador's task was not an easy one. Talaat was not yet entirely convinced that his best policy was war, and, as I have already said, there was still plenty of pro-ally sympathy in official quarters. It was Talaat's plan not to seize all the cabinet offices at once, but gradually to elbow his way into undisputed control. At this crisis the most popularly respected members of the Ministry were Djavid, Minister of Finance, a man who was Jewish by race, but a Mohammedan by religion, Mahmoud Pasha, Minister of Public Works, a Circassian, Bustany Effendi, Minister of Commerce and Agriculture, a Christian Arab, and Oskan Effendi, Minister of Posts and Telegraphs, an Armenian—and a Christian, of course.

All these leaders, as well as the Grand Vizier, openly opposed war and all now informed Talaat and Enver that they would resign if Germany succeeded in her intrigues. Thus the atmosphere was exciting; how tense the situation was a single episode will show. Sir Louis Mallet, the British Ambassador, had accepted an invitation to dine at the American embassy on October 20, but he sent word at the last moment that he was ill and could not come.

BRITAIN'S ENVOY ALARMED.

I called on the Ambassador an hour or two afterward and found him in his garden, apparently in the best of health. Sir Louis smiled and said that his illness had been purely political.

He had received a letter telling him that he was to be assassinated that evening, this letter informing him of the precise spot where the tragedy was to take place and the time. He therefore thought that he had better stay indoors. As I had no doubt that some such crime had been planned, I offered Sir Louis the protection of our embassy. I gave him the key to the back gate of the garden; and, with Lord Wellesley, one of his secretaries—a descendant of the Duke of Wellington—I made all arrangements for his escape to our quarters in case a flight became necessary.

Our two embassies were so located that, in the event of an attack, he might go unobserved from the back gate of his to the back gate of ours. "These people are relapsing into the Middle Ages," said Sir Louis, "when it was quite the thing to throw ambassadors into dungeons," and I think that he anticipated that the present Turks might treat him in the same way. I at once went to the Grand Vizier and informed him of the situation, insisting that nothing less than a visit from Talaat to Sir Louis, assuring him of his safety, would undo the harm already done.

I could make this demand with propriety, as we had already made arrangements to take over British interests when the break came. Within two hours Talaat made such a visit. Though one of the Turkish newspapers was printing scurrilous attacks on Sir Louis he was personally very popular with the Turks, and the Grand Vizier expressed his amazement and regret—and he was entirely sincere—that such threats had been made.

September Shipping Losses Smallest Since August, 1916

London, Oct. 24.—Shipping losses due to submarine warfare during September were smaller than those of any month since August, 1916, the Admiralty announces.

The losses were: British, 150,593 tons; allied, 88,007 tons; neutral, 239,600 tons; total, 479,200 tons.

British sailings during September aggregated 7,515,061 tons.

SUGAR BUYERS MUST SIGN PLEDGES

Purchasers of sugar are to be required within a few weeks to state on a pledge card the amount they have on hand, the number of persons in their households and to promise on their honor that they will comply with the two-pounds-a-person rule of the State Food Administration.

In making this announcement, Edward Wigglesworth, chief of the sugar division, declared that unless the purchaser agrees to do this no sugar will be sold him; while the grocer selling sugar without the signing of the pledge card will have his supply cut off. A separate card, which may be secured at the grocer's, must be signed for each purchase.

The pledge card reads:

"Upon my honor I certify that this purchase of —— pounds of sugar is made upon the expres understanding that there will be used in my household not more than two pounds of sugar per person per month.

"I have now in my house —— pounds of sugar, and agree from now on not to have on hand at any time over a two weeks' supply of sugar, based on consumption of two pounds per person per month, in addition to the amount issued to me for canning purposes, except on written permission of the State Food Administrator.

"The actual number of persons in my household is now ——

CONGRESSMEN MUST NOT JOIN THE ARMY

New York, Oct. 24.—No more members of Congress will be permitted to join the military forces, it became known today.

Congressman John J. Delane, of New York, after passing all examinations and being recommended for a lieutenancy in the quartermaster's corps, has been informed by Secretary Baker that the nation's law makers will have to stay on the prosaic job of making laws instead of winning Boches.

Secretary Baker consulted with President Wilson before making a decision, it was said.

COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

Darkens Beautifully and Restores Its Natural Color and Lustre at Once.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, a large bottle, at little cost, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of muss.

While gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—Advertisement.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes—Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women as well as men take Dr. Edward's Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep in the pink of condition. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

DEVENS BOXERS OUT TO LAND HONORS

By THOMAS F. PHELAN.

Camp Devens, Ayer, Oct. 24.—Teams representing the Harvard Radio School of Cambridge and Camp Devens will meet in an all-star boxing tournament tonight in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium here.

In addition to the men at camp many prominent fight fans have been invited to witness the contests, and it is expected that a record-breaking crowd will be in attendance when festivities get under way.

Captain R. F. Nelligan, camp athletic director, has added considerable strength to the camp team through the acquisition of several new youngsters who have achieved fame at the manly art of self-defence. He has freely made the prediction during the past week that they will make the Radio boys step lively, much livelier, in fact, than they did the Hingham sailors a week ago.

OSTHUES TO REFEREE.

All foreign military attaches have promised to attend the bouts, and Captain Nelligan has made arrangements for seats for them at the ringside. The opening bout will start at 7 o'clock. Benny Osthues, representing the Boston A. A., will act as referee.

Tomorrow evening there will be bouts between teams from the 36th and 42d Infantry. The hitters from the latter command have handed out a defi to the boxers of other commands. The challenge has been accepted by men in the latter organization. Keen rivalry exists.

Private Joseph J. Gauthier of the 8th Battalion, 151st Depot Brigade, has been transferred to the Plymouth Division. He has been doing special work at the camp quarters. He was drafted from Burlington, Vt. His home is in Montreal. He speaks several languages.

The 151st Depot Brigade has been depleted by the transfer of 319 enlisted men to Fort Warren, Boston Harbor.

Private Clarence A. Rice of Company 20, Fifth Battalion, Depot Brigade, has been discharged from the army for disability. He will be escorted to his home in Claremont, N. H., by Sergeant William E. Keane.

212TH MEN TRANSFERRED.

These men of the 212th Field Signal Battalion have been transferred as follows: To the 36th Infantry, Private Alessandro Gioncola, C Company; to the 73d Infantry, Private Dominick Patellari, C Company; to the 42d Infantry, Private Gustaf H. Nilson; to the 74th Infantry, Private Peter J. Chouinard.

Lieutenant Nathan Hasin, 73d Infantry, has been granted six days' leave of absence starting October 25, "Under exceptional circumstances."

Private Francis Greene, on duty in the office of the division quartermaster, has been promoted to the grade of sergeant, Quartermaster Corps.

Lieutenant Eugene C. Tittman, 42d Infantry, has been granted leave of absence for seventeen days on account of illness.

Private William McElroy, [illegible] Company, 36th Infantry, and Private Oscar W. Berg, M Company, 74th Infantry, have been assigned to the 212th Field Signal Battalion.

Former Yale Captain Is Believed to Be Boche Prisoner

Washington, Oct. 24.—Lieutenants Kenneth MacLeish of Glencoe, Ill., and Artemus L. Gates of Clinton, Ia., former captain of the Yale football team, naval aviators, who have been missing for a number of days, are believed to have been taken prisoners the Navy Department was advised by Vice-Admiral Sims.

Lieutenant MacLeish went into action October 14, with a squadron of American fliers against a number of enemy planes and has not since been heard from nor has his machine been found.

ARLINGTON BOY GOES TO CAMP JACKSON

Kenneth Lee MacLean of No. 30 Fairview avenue, Arlington, who was recently commissioned a first lieutenant in the field artillery of the United States army, is now an instructor at Camp Jackson, S. C. He is the son of Captain Wren MacLean, a master mariner in the United States Navy, and at present commander of an American transport.

RADIO RING MEN TO SHOW AT ARMY CAMP

U. S. Naval Radio School, Cambridge, Oct. 24.—Radio School sport followers were all confidence today. Radio is sending to Camp Devens tonight a sextet of boxers who will clash with some of the fistic talent at the army camp.

The tournament is the first to be held between the Radio School boxers and the army athletes. There was no doubt in the minds of Radio enthusiasts that their fistic representatives would give a good account of themselves.

Among the Radio contingent will be Young Butler, Chick Hayes, Young Donnelly and Fred Youngberg.

Although boxing matches have been held at Instruction Hall on several occasions in the past, tonight's contests aroused added interest to that phase of sport.

It is expected the tournaments will be continued throughout the Winter, with Radio making its aim to be as far in the lead as in other branches of sport.

Owing to constant changes in the personnel of the various naval units, it is not likely that a definite boxing schedule will be arranged.

SPANISH WAR VETERAN WINS LIEUTENANCY

William J. Jones of No. 61 Dayton street, Quincy, a veteran of the Spanish War, has been commissioned a second lieutenant in the Quartermaster Corps, U. S. A., according to an announcement by the War Department.

Lieutenant Jones, who is forty-four years old, saw active service with the United States troops in Cuba.

YORK APPOINTED CITY SOLICITOR OF MEDFORD

A. Chesley York, a former Alderman of Medford and an instructor in the Suffolk and Portia Law Schools, today became city solicitor of Medford, succeeding ex-Mayor Charles S. Baxter of Medford, who is better known throughout the State as manager of several Republican political campaigns.

INFLUENZA TOLL CONTINUES TO DECREASE

26 Deaths Contained in Latest Report—Push Drive to Wipe Out Disease

The epidemic of influenza and pneumonia will be virtually wiped out in Boston by November 1, according to health officials.

The latest report shows seventeen deaths from influenza and nine from pneumonia. This is six less than the previous mark.

The death total was the lowest since September 15.

Theatre managers are requested by the health commissioner to continue to display warning signs on screens and prosceniums against coughing, sneezing and spitting; saloon keepers and those in charge of soda fountains will be expected to instal steaming vessels in which to disinfect glasses and utensils used by the public; while the public are asked to refrain from coughing, sneezing and spitting.

At a meeting of the board of managers of the Instructive Boston District Nursing Association, the first of such meetings since the epidemic, it was stated that 3,074 influenza cases were being treated at one time when the mortality-making wave was at its crest, while at present there are 1,601 cases under treatment.

It was stated also that a few new cases are reported daily. The association lost only one nurse during the epidemic, although 63 per cent. of the staff were ill. Miss Theresa Sheehan was the nurse who died, she having contracted the disease while nursing her brother at Camp Devens.

Only eight new cases of influenza were reported to Captain John M. Edgar, medical aide of the First Naval District. This report embraced the fourteen naval training stations and schools in the First District, with a personnel of 201,500 men.

Reports received at the State health department from 104 cities and towns throughout Massachusetts indicates 2840 new cases of influenza and 110 deaths. Dr. John S. Hitchcock of the State health department says that the situation is steadily improving, but holds the same opinion as does Dr. Woodward, Boston commissioner of health, that there are likely to be occasional cases in the Commonwealth throughout the Winter months, as in the influenza epidemic of 1889-90.

Reports received were: Brookline, 17 cases; Brockton, 29; Cambridge, 27; North Attleboro, 26; Beverly, 30; Chelsea, 26; Haverhill, 41; Lynn, 37; Malden, 16; Salem, 20; Lawrence, 60 cases, 4 deaths; Lowell, 136 cases, 5 deaths; Somerville, 33 cases, 15 deaths (five-day period); Framingham, 42 cases; Southbridge, 29; Worcester, 152; Athol, 26; Fitchburg, 97 cases, 10 deaths (in two days); Gardner, 60 cases; Hardwick, 29; Winchendon, 13; Chicopee, 42; Holyoke, 149 (in two days); Ludlow, 27; Northampton, 24 cases, 1 death; Springfield, 149 cases, 6 deaths; Westfield, 46 cases; North Adams, 66; Pittsfield, 13; Great Barrington, 30, and Sheffield, 20.

Worcester Physician Scores School Authorities

Worcester, Oct. 24.—Dr. Francis A. Underwood, member of the school committee from Ward 3, has advised all his patients not to send their children to school for the next few days.

He says that the act of the school authorities in opening the schools as soon as the closing ban had been lifted by the local board of health was nothing less than criminal with the large amount of influenza sickness still in the city, and says that if a meeting of the school committee had been called for this purpose the three physician members of the board would have been able to give the superintendent some good advice.

Catarrh Of The Stomach Is Dangerous

"Thousands Have It and Don't Know It," Says Physician. Frequently Mistaken for Indigestion—How to Recognize and Treat.

"Thousands of people suffer more or less constantly from furred, coated tongue, bad breath, sour, burning stomach, frequent vomiting, rumbling in stomach, bitter eructations, gas, wind and stomach acidity, and call it indigestion when in reality their trouble is due to gastric catarrh of the stomach," writes a New York physician.

Catarrh of the stomach is dangerous because the mucous membrane lining of the stomach is thickened and a coating of phlegm covers the surface so that the digestive fluids cannot mix with the foods and digest them. This condition soon breeds deadly disease in the fermented, unassimilated food. The blood is polluted and carries the infection throughout the body. Gastric ulcers are apt to form, and frequently an ulcer is the first sign of a deadly cancer.

In catarrh of the stomach a good and safe treatment is to take before meals a teaspoonful of pure Bisurated Magnesia in half a glass of hot water as hot as you can comfortably drink it. The hot water washes the mucous from the stomach walls and draws the blood to the stomach, while the Bisurated Magnesia is an excellent solvent for mucous and increases the efficiency of the hot-water treatment. Moreover, the Bisurated Magnesia will serve as a powerful but harmless antacid which will neutralize any excess hydrochloric acid that may be in your stomach and sweeten its food contents. Easy, natural digestion without distress of any kind should soon follow. Bisurated Magnesia is not a laxative, is harmless, pleasant and easy to take, and can be obtained from any local druggist. Don't confuse Bisurated Magnesia with other forms of magnesia, milks, citrates, etc., but get it in the pure bisurated form (powder or tablets), especially prepared for this purpose.

PLAY OF YOUTH AND LOVE AT PLYMOUTH

By FRED J. McISAAC.

"Seventeen" is a play about young folks for middle-aged and old folks. The college youth, and the second lieutenant are too close to Willie Baxter in age and aspirations to get the perspective which makes us older people enjoy the little comedy-tragedy which Stuart Walker has brought to the Plymouth Theatre.

Booth Tarkington, a man with a marvelous capacity for remembering and describing, has written a series of stories about a seventeen-year-old boy who was stricken with the grand passion for a sixteen-year-old girl.

Not that he was the first to portray calf love. William Shakespeare did that in "Romeo and Juliet," whose hero and heroine were younger than Willie and his Baby Talk Lady. But Shakespeare was a romantic poet, while Tarkington is a realist with a very keen sense of humor.

Some of these stories have been sewn together to make a play, and Mr. Stuart Walker should not omit the name of the dramatist from the program, for it is a very creditable piece of play making. Even if you never chanced to read one of the stories which appeared in a popular magazine, you cannot fail to be interested and amused by this bit of boy and girl life, provided always, that you are old enough.

Tarkington's Romeo is a middle Western boy, and his inamorata is a wonderfully vacant-headed bit of fluff who owns a little white dog named Flopit, and who coos to her swains in baby talk.

Willie Baxter is in urgent need of a dress suit in which to call upon this paragon. He borrows his father's until that stern and heavy parent requires it himself, and then he is reduced to dire straits to find a substitute. The dress suit episode and Lola's farewell party form the slender thread upon which the play hangs. Needless to say its dramatic interest is not very intense.

"Seventeen" wins because of the perfect reality and sincerity of the characters drawn by Tarkington and the very skillful acting of the three or four chief performers.

Gregory Kelly, a young actor whose work in Boston up to this time gave him little opportunity, shows us a true American youth of the period when the heart is better developed than the head. Willie Baxter has to be lifelike; the slightest touch of artificiality would condemn the entire entertainment. Mr. Kelly never fails.

Hardly less competent is Lillian Ross as Jane Baxter, the ten-year-old Nemesis of Willie, the little sister who pursues him, spies out all his secrets and tattles on him continuously.

Ruth Gordon is singularly efficient as the silly little Lola who flirts with all the boys and chatters to them in baby talk. Judith Lowry as Willie's mother strikes a fine note, and the performances of Fred Strong as a fat darkey, Neil Martin, Morgan Farley and Ben Lyon as the trio of boy rivals was admirable. Lew Medbury as Willie's father is the only discord. He reads honest and natural lines with the utmost insincerity.

"CHINESE PUZZLE" IS ATTRACTION AT COPLEY

"The Chinese Puzzle," a romantic drama in four acts, by Marion Bower and Leon M. Lion, was given for the first time by the Jewett Players at the Copley Theatre. Henry Jewett, director of the company, made his first appearance as a member of the company which has so long been known by his name. In the character of Dr. Chi Lung, an eminent mandarin and diplomat, he was warmly greeted by an audience that filled the house to capacity and was eager to show its appreciation of the excellent production, programs and personnel of the company which has, through his efforts, made theatrical history in Boston.

The play is a real "thriller," built on the theme of an important international document, the contents of which are betrayed in the course of a house party of distinguished guests. Chi Lung has been the intimate friend of Sir Arthur de la Haye, now dead, whose son holds a prominent position in the British diplomatic service. It is at his house that the document in question is drawn. It concerns an international loan.

The son of the house is in love with a beautiful girl, daughter of an adventuress, who has become involved with a German secret agent.

It is to her interest to learn and sell the secret of the paper.

That secret is learned and sold. One after another of the guests is suspected. No one, except the audience, suspects the beautiful daughter of the adventuress. The son of the house comes under the cloud and is publicly disgraced. The girl stands by him and they are married.

A year slips by between acts two and three. Then the guests are reassembled, in a final effort to trace the theft. From this point on the interest is tense and well sustained.

The character of Chi Lung gives extraordinary picturesqueness to the settings. Mr. Jewett was a striking figure, wearing his gorgeous raiment with majesty and speaking his lines with that security of diction and sonority of tone with which his performance as an actor has always been identified.

Miss Phyllis Relph as the daughter of the adventuress, and Noel Leslie as Sir Roger; H. Conway Wingfield and Miss Jessamine Newcombe, were only a few that could be mentioned out of a generally excellent cast.

Miss Relph was charming, and rose to the emotional scenes with often thrilling effect.

LAWSON BREAKS RIBS IN AUTO ACCIDENT

With two broken ribs and his body generally cut and bruised following an automobile accident at Northboro, Thomas W. Lawson today sent word from the Marlboro Hospital to the Boston AMERICAN that he expected to be ready on Monday to resume his campaign for the United States senatorship from Massachusetts.

"I am a trifle bunged," the financier relayed to the telephone, via his son-in-law, James F. Lord, "but I am still distinctly in the ring. As soon as the doctor allows me to get up I shall resume where I left off my little stunt, which is to avenge the murder of Sam McCall by Big Boodle."

The doctor at the Marlboro Hospital, where Mr. Lawson was taken following the accident, looks for the speedy recovery of the candidate.

Michael "Glorious" Kelly, Lawson's chauffeur and former coachman, who also received multiple bruises, is doing well.

Mr. and Mrs. Lord, who was Marion Lawson, arrived at the Marlboro Hospital shortly after they had been notified of the accident to Mr. Lawson and spent the night there.

Mr. Lawson and his chauffeur were returning to "Dreamwold," the financier's country home at Egypt, from Worcester, where they had attended the Democratic State convention.

The road was obstructed by the truck when Kelly atempted to drive the Lawson machine around and ahead of it. An automobile approaching from the opposite direction compelled Kelly to steer Mr. Lawson's car back to its former course. He was unable to stop the heavy machine and it crashed into the truck. Mr. Lawson was thrown out of the car and his chauffeur was caught on the windshield.

Dr. William Dwyer of No. 81 Mountfort street, who was passing at the time, picked up Mr. Lawson and his chauffeur and took them to Marlboro hospital. Later Mr. Lawson's special nurse and his daughter, Mrs. Lord, arrived. He was reported to be resting comfortably early today.

AVAILABLE RED CROSS WORKERS ALL AT FRONT

Washington, Oct. 23.—Every American Red Cross worker who can be spared from other duties in France has been assigned to canteens and hospitals near the front, according to a cable received at national headquarters. Forty-five women workers have been sent from Paris to help out. Canteens are now in operation at thirty advanced points near the front.

Thirty girls employed in the packing room of the J. L. Walker Company, Lynn, won a strike in three hours when the members of the firm agreed to increase their weekly wage from $15 to $18.

TRIS SPEAKER in his uniform as a naval aviator.

Tris Speaker Begins His Training as Aviator

Tristram Speaker, of Hubbard City, Texas, sometimes of Boston and Cleveland, has laid aside his $18,000 baseball arm and eye to assume the task of piloting a naval airplane for his Uncle Samuel. Today Tristram works for a mere $30 per month or thereabouts.

In common with hundreds of other young men from all sections of the country, Tristram, or "Spoke," as some would have it, labors daily at the Naval Aviation Ground School, attached to Technology, securing a rudimentary knowledge of airplanes, their engines and workings.

A short time hence and Tris will be eligible for transfer to the flying school at Miami, Fla., where the finishing touches will be put on his flying education. Herewith one sees Tris attired in the uniform of a naval aviation cadet. It's in just such a 'uni' that Boston will see him for some little time to come.

SIX MONTHS' COURSE IN NURSING FOR WOMEN

The Household Nursing Association and the Boston Metropolitan Chapter of the American Red Cross have arranged a six months' course in nursing for women. This course involves four months' training at one of the Boston hospitals, followed by two months of instruction in food values and buying, and practical field work. Persons who are interested in learning details about the course are asked to go to the Boston Metropolitan Chapter headquarters, No. 142 Berkeley street, Room 284.

EXAMINATION COMING FOR ENGINEER CORPS

An examination for commissions in the Reserve Officer's Engineer Corps will be held on Monday and Tuesday at the headquarters of the Military Training Camps Association, Room 230, No. 84 State street. Men within the ages of 32-42 in the actual practice of civil, mechanical, electrical, and mining engineering are eligible.

UNCONSCIOUS IN BED FROM ESCAPING GAS

John Henry, twenty-three, a lodger on Staniford street, was found unconscious in bed early today, with the gas escaping. He is on the danger list at the Relief Hospital. It is believed the gas was blown out while the man slept.

Asks $1,000 Damages

Thomas J. Cahill of Cambridge has been sued for $1,000 by Fred L. Doyle of Belmont. Doyle alleges that on May 6, while driving his automobile on Washington street, Charlestown, his car was damaged when the defendant's machine collided with it.

GIRLS! MOISTEN A CLOTH AND DRAW IT THROUGH HAIR

It becomes beautifully soft, wavy, abundant and glossy at once.

Save your hair! All dandruff goes and hair stops coming out.

Surely try a "Danderine Hair Cleanse" if you wish to immediately double the beauty of your hair. Just moisten a cloth with Danderine and draw it carefully through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; this will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or any excessive oil—in a few minutes you will be amazed. Your hair will be wavy, fluffy and abundant and possess an incomparable softness, lustre and luxuriance.

Besides beautifying the hair, one application of Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; invigorates the scalp, stopping itching and falling hair.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.

You can surely have pretty, soft, lustrous hair, and lots of it, if you will spend a few cents for a bottle of Knowlton's Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter and try it as directed.

Save your hair! Keep it looking charming and beautiful. You will say this was the best money you ever spent.—Advertisement.

Douglas name on shoes is his pledge that they are the best in materials, workmanship and style possible to produce at the price. Into every pair go the results of sixty-six years experience in making shoes, dating back to the time when W. L. Douglas was a lad of seven, pegging shoes.

The quality of W.L.Douglas product is guaranteed by more than 40 years experience in making fine shoes. The smart styles are the leaders in the fashion centres of America. They are made in a well-equipped factory at Brockton, Mass., by the highest paid, skilled shoemakers, under the direction and supervision of experienced men, all working with an honest determination to make the best shoes for the price that money can buy. The retail prices are the same everywhere. They cost no more in San Francisco than they do in New York.

CAUTION—Before you buy be sure W. L. Douglas name and the retail price is stamped on the bottom and the inside top facing. If the stamped price has been mutilated, BEWARE OF FRAUD.

For sale by 105 W.L.Douglas stores and over 9,000 W.L.Douglas dealers, or can be ordered direct from W. L. Douglas by mail. Send for booklet telling how to order shoes through the mail, postage free.

TRANSCRIPT—H. T. Parker:
It persuades and pleasures, interests and amuses. . . . A truly American play. . . . As Willie Baxter, it was Mr. Kelly's just lot and title to outshine them all.
TRAVELER—Katharine Lyons:
Seventeen is such an exceedingly human play it might virtually be called captivating.
RECORD—F. H. Cushman:
It is as sweet as a June rose and interesting to all boys and girls from 16 to 60, and should prove as great a drawing card here as it has elsewhere.

WALSH DECLARES WEEKS' POLICY HEARTLESS

[illegible] of [illegible] plosive shell at Chateau-Thierry.

[illegible]

"AMERICA'S GOING TO WIN."

[illegible]

And John W. Weeks, according to the charge of David I. Walsh, voted in the Senate of the United States against the bill to provide two years of free education for the soldier-heroes who are called by the draft to serve their country.

ARRAIGNS WEEKS'S RECORD.

Governor Walsh [illegible] arraignment of Weeks' reactionary and partisan record. Other charges [illegible] were:

That Weeks voted to cut down the maximum of insurance to be paid to the family of a soldier for the loss of his life from $10,000 to $7,500.

That he voted, by supporting the wheat bill over President Wilson's veto, to increase the cost of flour $2 a barrel.

That he moved three times to take the management of the war out of the hands of President Wilson and to vest it in a committee of Congress. The last motion was made even after President Wilson had urged Congress not to humiliate him with such a measure.

CONVENTION HARMONIOUS.

The Convention was harmonious [illegible] of its partisan enemies. Governor Walsh said that Richard H. Long is "a tried and true Democrat; a man in whom the people can have implicit confidence and who will serve them bravely and courageously because he knows their desires and is not controlled by an corporation clique."

Joseph B. Ely was the temporary chairman and made his first Big Speech. Mr. Ely by his eloquence [illegible]

[illegible]

CONRY PRESIDES.

Former Congressman Joseph A. Conry of Boston presided with eloquence and grace. An extract from his [illegible]

"We [illegible] to represent all the people of the United States and we [illegible] send the message of assurance to Woodrow Wilson and to every American soldier on the battle field and in cantonment on land and on sea that we are with them to our last dollar, yes, to our last drop of blood."

[illegible] Shaw of Revere said [illegible] that the corporation and [illegible] of this State [illegible] opposing the [illegible] of the Initiative and Referendum [illegible]

[illegible] platform as read by James H. [illegible] applause. It is as was expected [illegible] of [illegible] and progressive [illegible]

The first of the State planks was [illegible] simple and straightforward declaration for the Initiative and Referendum. President Wilson was [illegible] extolled. Other features of the Democratic declaration of faith included:

Public control of public utilities.

Woman suffrage, without any kind of equivocation whatsoever. (The first time in the history of either Big Party in this State).

The basic 8-hour day.

Old-age pensions.

Laws to destroy the lobby.

Laws to control monopolies.

The return of the $10-a-month State pay to soldiers, sailors and their dependents.

Survey of the transportation system with the view of facilitating the delivery of products from the producers to the consumers.

Against biennial elections.

To abolish the alleged Fish Trust by the establishment of a new fish pier, to be controlled and operated by the State, and to provide open competition for the buying, selling distributing of fish.

HOLY CROSS MILITARY UNIT IN DRESS PARADE

Worcester, Oct. 24.—The four companies of the military unit at Holy Cross College will compete in dress parade and manoeuvres for a silver [illegible] by a local trust company. The competition will take place in connection with a football game between Holy Cross and another New England college, possibly Boston College. Eight hundred student soldiers will take part. Prominent military men will be selected as judges.

"Spokes"—and the Swift "Wheel"

What would you consumers think of a wheel without spokes?

What would you think of a man who would take any or all of the spokes out of a wheel to make it run better?

Swift & Company's business of getting fresh meat to you is a wheel, of which the packing plant is only the hub. Retail dealers are the rim—and Swift & Company Branch Houses are the spokes.

The hub wouldn't do the wheel much good and you wouldn't have much use for hub or rim if it weren't for the spokes that fit them all together to make a wheel of it.

Swift & Company Branch Houses are placed, after thorough investigation, in centers where they can be successfully operated and do the most good for the most people at the least possible cost.

Each "spoke" is in charge of a man who knows that he is there to keep you supplied at all times with meat, sweet and fresh; and who knows that if he doesn't do it, his competitor will.

How much good would the hub and the rim of the Swift "wheel" do you if the spokes were done away with?

The Kind You Have Always Bought.

THIS is the caution applied to the public announcement of Castoria that has been manufactured under the supervision of Chas. H. Fletcher for over 30 years—the genuine Castoria. We respectfully call the attention of fathers and mothers when purchasing Castoria to see that the wrapper bears his signature in black. When the wrapper is removed the same signature appears on both sides of the bottle in red. Parents who have used Castoria for their little ones in the past years need no warning against counterfeits and imitations, but our present duty is to call the attention of the younger generation to the great danger of introducing into their families spurious medicines.

It is to be regretted that there are people who are now engaged in the nefarious business of putting up and selling all sorts of substitutes, or what should more properly be termed counterfeits, for medicinal preparations not only for adults, but worse yet, for children's medicines. It therefore devolves on the mother to scrutinize closely what she gives her child. Adults can do that for themselves but the child has to rely on the mother's watchfulness.

Letters from Prominent Druggists addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Central Drug Co., of Detroit, Mich., says: "We consider your Castoria in a class distinct from patent medicines and commend it."

Christy Drug Stores, of Pittsburg, Pa., say: "We have sold your Castoria for so many years with such satisfactory results that we cannot refrain from saying a good word for it when we get a chance."

Jacob Bros., of Philadelphia, Pa., say: "We take pleasure in recommending Fletcher's Castoria as one of the oldest and best of the preparations of the kind upon the market."

Hess & McCann, of Kansas City, Mo., say: "Your Castoria always gives satisfaction. We have no substitute for it and only sell 'The Kind You Have Always Bought,' the original."

The Voegeli Bros., of Minneapolis, Minn., say: "We wish to say that we have at all times a large demand for Fletcher's Castoria at all of our three stores and that it gives universal satisfaction to our trade."

Polk Miller Drug Co., of Richmond, Va., says: "Your Castoria is one of the most satisfactory preparations we have ever handled. It seems to satisfy completely the public demand for such an article and is steadily creating a growing sale by its merit."

P. A. Capdau, of New Orleans, La., says: "We handle every good home remedy demanded by the public and while our shelves are thoroughly equipped with the best of drugs and proprietary articles, there are few if any which have the unceasing sale that your Castoria has."

M. C. Dow, of Cincinnati, Ohio, says: "When people in increasing numbers purchase a remedy and continue buying it for years; when it passes the fad or experimental stage and becomes a household necessity, then it can be said its worth has been firmly established. We can and do gladly offer this kind of commendation to Fletcher's Castoria."

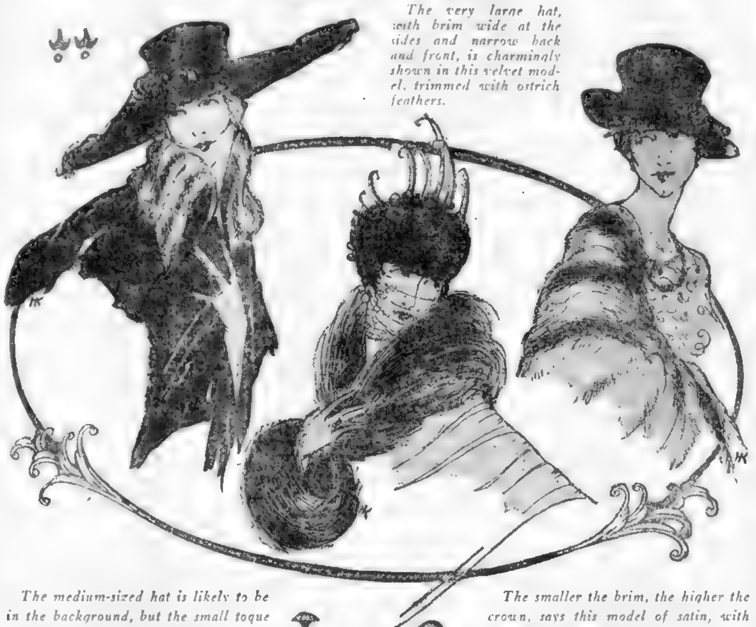
Good Housekeeping Pictures the New Models as the Best French Designers See Them



The very large hat, with brim wide at the sides and narrow back and front, is charmingly shown in this velvet model, trimmed with ostrich feathers.

The medium-sized hat is likely to be in the background, but the small toque like this, with feathers, is smart.

The smaller the brim, the higher the crown, says this model of satin, with charming flowers for trimming.

I [illegible] for doing it. Then Betty explained [illegible] was gladder than ever that I had been decent even before Betty made it all clear: "I [illegible] back [illegible] yesterday [illegible] there wasn't a [illegible] strip [illegible] I make [illegible] table [illegible] new work of rehabilitating crippled men the Red Cross [illegible] to do here in New York [illegible] were on our way [illegible] dinner [illegible] saw Jim [illegible] house [illegible] Arch [illegible] He took [illegible] here [illegible] and [illegible]

Boys Coming

Now may I have an apron right [illegible]

[illegible] All the warm [illegible] had told her [illegible] I resented [illegible] talking [illegible]

"Why do you ask?" I [illegible] quired.

"[illegible] natural [illegible] friend? Here you and [illegible] cad, Anne—a cad, [illegible]—great lover of the beautiful [illegible] are very lovely—but [illegible] tells you that a hundred [illegible]—well, don't let the Mason [illegible] tell you."

Jim had not told me that he thought me "lovely" for longer than I liked to remember. I resented Betty's taking for granted that he spoke often of my looks, which I felt were in sad [illegible] contrast to Betty's regal beauty. I resented her supposing that [illegible] be for my looks and nothing else that Tom Mason liked me—and I felt myself rising up in arms at her calling him a cad.

A moment before I had been ready to like Betty, but now the barriers were up again. It's always so. I [illegible] ready to [illegible] her and [illegible] at which I [illegible] take offence.

[illegible] saved me [illegible] strings of her apron [illegible]

There was a telegram—addressed [illegible] I signed for it and then I [illegible] for a moment as if the [illegible] address on the yellow [illegible] tell me something [illegible] Of course there was no reason for fright but somehow I felt terrified by that mysterious [illegible] envelope.

Came to the Door

Betty came to the door between the kitchenette and the living room.

"I peeked into the oven, Princess Anne, and saw a delicious lamb roast. Shall I light the burners again? The boys will be here directly."

"Please," I replied. "And will you put on some water to boil? I [illegible] the old [illegible]"

[illegible] over to the window, [illegible] curtains of [illegible] my little finger under the flap of the yellow envelope. Of course I looked at the signature—Thomas C. Mason."

At that I fell to trembling as if with cold. But as I stared out the window, I could see Jim and Captain Winston coming down the street—and I must read and digest the message before their arrival. It was a [illegible] letter:

"Please [illegible] Venetian robe to [illegible] Arranging pageant [illegible] war [illegible] Wish you were here [illegible] to work [illegible] instead [illegible] you [illegible]"

To Be Continued.

The Healthiest Way

A company commander received an order from [illegible] headquarters to send in a report giving the number of dead Germans in front of his sector of the trench. He sent in the number as 2031. H. Q. [illegible] asked how he arrived at this unusual figure.

"We [illegible] 'I'm certain about the one because I counted him myself. He's hanging on the wire just in front of me. I estimated the 2030. I worked it out all by myself in my own [illegible] it was healthier to estimate 'em than to walk about in No Man's Land and count 'em."

Hints for Household

If morocco leather chairs are shabby in the seat, but otherwise in good condition, they may be renovated quite easily. First rub them over lightly with a rag moistened in [illegible]. If the leather is red add a little rose pink to some French polish. Apply it with a pad made by folding a bit of wadding in a cover of old calico. Use the polish sparingly, for if too much is put on it tends to make the leather stiff. If the chairs are green or blue add a little of whatever tint is necessary.

A cheap substitute for putty, suitable for stopping cracks in floors and other woodwork is made by soaking newspapers in a paste made by boiling a pound of flour in three quarts of water and adding a teaspoonful of alum. This mixture will be about the consistency of putty and it should be forced into the cracks with a knife. It will harden when it dries, and they may be painted to match the boards. If the cracks be neatly stopped they will when painted, be scarcely perceptible.

The ceilings [illegible] above incandescent mantles often become blackened, while the rest remain [illegible] whitewashed the place can be cleaned by being rubbed over with a mixture of starch and water of the consistency of cream. A soft flannel cloth may be used. When quite dry spread a newspaper underneath and gently rub off the starch. The black stain will come with it.

A new dish from a Frenchwoman: Boil some rice until tender in salted water and stir in an ounce of butter or good dripping, two tablespoonfuls of tomato sauce and a little grated cheese. Powder a hot dish with the rice and fill the centre with boiled French beans or scarlet runners. Strain, return to the saucepan and heat up with a little butter, salt and a squeeze of lemon juice.

Stop This Epidemic

Doctors and health authorities are bending every energy to stop the spread of Spanish Influenza.

Don't leave it all to them. Do your part. Every man and woman can help to stamp out this very contagious disease.

See to it that your body is in first class condition. Exercise and fresh air with proper rest and food, will give you strength to ward off the germs.

Look out for colds. They are dangerous to yourself and others. They lead to pneumonia and make you an easy mark for any epidemic.

WANT SURPLUS IN WAR WORK CAMPAIGN

United War Work leaders of New England, who assembled in Ford Hall for an all-day session, are back in their homes today, fired with enthusiasm and ready to start their campaign for the raising of New England's quota of $15,000,000 in the National War Work campaign.

New England has the task of raising in the campaign November 11-18 fifteen millions of the one hundred and seventy and a half millions this country will be asked to contribute. But this sum is not the goal aimed at.

Dr. John R. Mott, director-general of the United War Work campaign, tells why much more than $170,500,000 is needed. Here are his reasons:

1—Because the budgets of at least three of the seven organizations uniting in the forthcoming campaign were based on data assembled last Spring, when it was thought there would be not more than 1,000,000 American soldiers in France by November first. As a matter of fact, the number there by that date will be 2,000,000.

NAVY HAS EXPANDED.

2—Because of the marvelous expansion of the American Navy. When America entered the war we had less than 70,000 men in the navy. There are now over 500,000 sailors and marines and the number will be further greatly increased.

3—Because this war, unlike others, is not alone a war of armies and navies, but a war of entire peoples, in particular, it involves vast numbers of the industrial classes.

4—Because the burden of this war falls so heavily upon the women of America and of the Allies.

5—Because of the comprehensiveness of the ministry being rendered the American army and navy and the forces of our Allies. It is the aim of these agencies to place at the disposal of our soldiers and sailors all that is best in American life.

6—Because of the continuity of the service we are seeking to render. We aim to follow the soldiers and sailors from the time they leave their homes, while they are in transit, while they are at the training camps, large and small, while they are on their way to the ports of embarkation, as well as at those ports, while they are on the sea, during their stay at those ports of debarkation, during their experiences in further training overseas, in the zone of combat including the front line trenches, while they are at leave resorts or in the hospitals or in the prison camps, and then all the way back to their homes.

7—Because of the imperative need of placing all these helpful facilities at the service of the French army of 4,000,000, of the Italian army of 3,000,000, and of the smaller but very important armies of Russia, of Belgium, of Portugal, of Macedonia, of Palestine, of Mesopotamia, and of Egypt.

8—Because of the indescribable need of the millions of prisoners of war.

AFTER-THE-WAR WORK.

9—Even though the war were to end within a few months, or a few weeks, we should stand in great need of a fund of more than $170,500,000, because this work, unlike that of many other agencies, will have to be continued throughout the entire period of demobilization.

10—If there were no other reason, there should be a large oversubscription in order to meet promptly and effectively emergencies and crises which are sure to come.

CAPT. LAVELLE BIDS FRIENDS FAREWELL

Captain Thomas D. Lavelle—"Tom" Lavelle, former assistant district attorney—bade farewell to one hundred of his closest friends who gathered at a banquet tendered in his honor at the Boston Athletic Association. He will leave shortly for service overseas.

The dinner was a pleasant surprise from the entrance of the guests to the presentation of a wrist watch as a testimonial from his friends.

Major T. J. Cleaton, Thomas H. Thompson, Charles A. Manley and James D. Healey composed the banquet committee. Captain Thomas H. Hood of Station 19 and Joseph A. Dennison acted as toastmasters. Among those present were Collector of the Port Edmund Billings, Congressman George H. Tinkham, Congressman James A. Gallivan, Dr. Arthur J. White, Richard S. Teeling, James H. Conlon, Major Robert Green, Major Edward J. Sampsep and Sheriff John A. Kelliher.

The climax of the evening came when Congressman Gallivan in his toast to Captain Lavelle, declared:

"You all believe that Tom is going to France. I have a surprise for you. He isn't. Tom is going straight through to Berlin!"

GREATEST DANGER FOLLOWS GRIP

Weakened Victims Fall Easy Prey To Other Diseases

The getting-well stage of grip, pneumonia or other illness is the most dangerous of all, because the body, weakened by the disease, is wide open to attacks of other lurking germs.

That is why all the organs of the body must be kept in their best working order, not only to drive out the poison left by the disease, but that the patient shall regain strength as soon as possible to avoid further attacks resulting from the poisons in the system.

As a means toward good health after any illness, Father John's Medicine builds up the body, because it is all pure, wholesome nourishment and free from opium, morphine, chloroform or other poisonous drugs or alcohol. Father John's Medicine has had 60 years' success for colds and throat troubles, coughs and sore throats, and as a tonic and body builder.

Proof:—

"After an attack of pneumonia the doctor ordered me to give my baby Father John's Medicine, and as a result he regained health and strength. I always give it to my children whenever they catch cold. I am writing this to tell you how grateful I am to Father John's Medicine." (Signed) Mrs. Geo. Hunsberger, 1051 Pike St., Reading, Pa. Because of its body-building, strength giving food value, Father John's Medicine is an ideal family medicine for all who are weak and run-down.

How To Avoid INFLUENZA

Nothing you can do will so effectually protect you against the Influenza or Grippe epidemic as keeping your organs of digestion and elimination active and your system free from poisonous accumulations.

Doctors and health authorities everywhere, are warning people of the danger of constipation, and advising, and urging everyone to see that the bowels and other eliminative organs act freely and regularly.

Ordinary laxatives, purges and cathartics, salts, oils, calomel and the like, are good enough to clean out the system, but do not strengthen the weakened organs; they do not build up vitality.

Why don't you begin right today to overcome constipation and get your system in such shape that you can feel reasonably sure of resisting disease. You can do so if you will just get a 25c. box of Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) and take one each night for a while.

NR Tablets do much more than merely cause pleasant, easy bowel action. This medicine acts upon the digestive as well as eliminative organs, promotes good digestion, causes the body to get the nourishment from all the food you eat, gives you a good, hearty appetite, strengthens the liver, overcomes biliousness, regulates kidney and bowel action and gives the whole body a thorough cleaning out. This accomplished you will not have to take medicine every day. An occasional NR Tablet will keep your body in condition and you can always feel your best. Sold and recommended by druggists.

PAINS AND ACHES YIELD QUICKLY TO SLOAN'S LINIMENT

Are you tormented by Neuralgia, Lumbago, Sciatica or any of those aches that require a counter-irritant? Then let the soothing, warming application of Sloan's Liniment stop the pain by drawing the blood away from the congested part.

It is the pressure on the nerves by the blood rushing to the inflamed muscle or joint that makes you ache. So when Sloan's Liniment relieves the swollen blood vessels by setting up a counter-irritant on the surface, the circulation is equalized, sympathetic nerves all soothed, and soreness or lameness disappear.

Sloan's Liniment is probably the counter-irritant most widely used to overcome painful inflammation in cases of neuralgia, sore muscles, wrenched joints, strains, bruises, gout. Rubbing is not required. This clear, clean liquid is easily applied, as it does not stain the skin.

WAR FUND IS AFTER WILLARD

Champion Asked to Go on in New York's Big Show—Roper at Work on Football Card

By W. S. FARNSWORTH.

New York, Oct. 24.—Jess Willard, world's heavyweight champion, former cow-puncher and late circus performer, has been asked to volunteer his services in the drive of the United War Work Campaign to raise $170,500,000 during the week of November 11-18 for the benefit of our fighting men.

The following telegram was sent to Willard at his home in Lawrence, Kan.:

"President Wilson has proclaimed November 11-18 as United War Work Campaign Week. This period will be devoted to raising funds for the Y. M. C. A., National Catholic War Council (Knights of Columbus), Jewish Welfare Board, War Camp Community Service, American Library Association and Salvation Army. All of these organizations are charged with the physical, moral and mental welfare of our boys who are dedicating their lives to our country's cause in the United States army and navy.

BOXERS TO DO BIT.

"The United War Work Campaign Boxing Committee is requesting the boxers and boxing promoters of the United States to do their bit. There will be boxing bouts in every city of America that week. We are asking you to volunteer your services.

"Everyone has signified his willingness, and we are awaiting word from you to assure the complete success and representation of American boxers. At this crisis in world affairs the champions in all branches of athletics are doing their utmost. We feel sure you will help."

It is now up to the owner of the heavyweight championship to wire his acceptance and begin training for a ten-round bout with Jack Dempsey at Madison Square Garden.

"Sunny Jim" Coffroth, the generalissimo of the boxing end of the sport program, states that he thought that Willard would be willing to box, but was doubtful whether or not Jess would consent to meet Dempsey here.

NAME BOXING COMMITTEE.

Billy Gibson, manager of Benny Leonard, world's lightweight champion; Charley Harvey, manager of Eddie Wallace, and Charley Doessereck, who so successfully handled bouts at the Pioneer S. C. for many years, will have charge of the boxing bouts that will be staged in this city. Harvey will act as chairman for the local boxing committee.

Johnny Dundee is one of the first boxers to offer his services. Johnny has a novel idea to help the drive. He is willing to box six bouts, each of six rounds duration, in six different States, on the first six nights of the drive.

Harvey has matched him to meet Eddie Wallace in this city.

Coffroth appointed Jack Curley as a committee of one to take charge of the wrestling end of the program. Curley will pick out the best wrestlers in the country to help the drive and matches will be held in all big cities.

William Roper, executive secretary of the general committee, is on a trip arranging several big football games. Those definitely arranged will probably be announced today.

Willard Agrees to Do His Bit to Help Out Sport War Fund Drive

Quanah, Tex., Oct. 24.—"I shall be glad to do everything in my power to make the campaign a great success."

This was Jess Willard's comment today when shown a dispatch quoting a New York telegram requesting the heavyweight champion to give his pugilistic services in a campaign to raise funds for army welfare organizations. Being without details of the plan, he said, he could make no further statement.

Willard is in Quanah looking after his oil interests.

HOPPE COMING TO HUB FOR RED CROSS MATCHES

Miss Dorothy Forbes, chairman of the Bureau of Benefits and Entertainments of the Boston Metropolitan Chapter, Red Cross, announces that Willie Hoppe, world's champion billiardist, will be in Boston on October 30 to November 2, inclusive, and will play three matches. Hoppe will perform at the City Club October 30; at the Engineers' Club, October 31 or November 1, and at the B. A. A., November 2.

Hoppe has entered into the spirit of the occasion in true sportsmanship fashion. In a telegram to Miss Forbes he states he will defray his own expenses over and back to New York, as well as pay all hotel and living bills while in Boston. R. B. Benjamin, Hoppe's manager, has also donated his services and will have charge of the champion's three exhibitions.

PARKER AND GRAY ADDED TO C. A. C. BOXING CARD

Young Goula, Woonsocket welterweight, is laid up with influenza and has been forced to cancel his booking with Mike Paulson, St. Paul blond, at the Commercial A. C. tomorrow night. Manager-Matchmaker McKirdy, again in good health and back on the job, announces that the Goula-Paulson set-to will go over until a later date, and that it will be Charley Parker vs. Jimmy Gray in the semi-final event to the Currie-Lahn battle.

Harvard Naval Squad Continues to Grow; Bill Snow on Deck

Captain J. A. Reilly of the Harvard Naval eleven has completed arrangements whereby each member of his squad will have two hours of drill three days a week, and the entire body at least one hour every day.

Ensign Bill Snow, now that the ice is broken, plans to come to Soldiers Field and assist in the coaching as often as his duties permit. His clever handling of a big squad of linesmen yesterday gave the army and navy players a good boost.

In his bunch of guards, centres and tackles were Stan Coleman, Harvard guard last Fall; Jack Pratt, regular tackle at St. George's for two seasons; Bill Meikle, former High School of Commerce tackle; Charley Griffin of Andover, Josh Nickerson, Frank Johnson, one of Charley Cuddy's former Swampscott High stars, and Ted Strong, guard on last year's Rutgers Prep School.

It was expected that one or two other coaches would follow Snow's example this afternoon. Bob Guild, one of Percy Haughton's lieutenants, was looked for, and a visit from Leo Leary, Crimson's best known mentor, aside from P. D., was not unlikely.

Arthur J. Connell, who starred at Exeter in baseball and hockey, has been elected manager of the naval eleven.

Eddie Grant One of First Collegians to Take Up Baseball

By SAM CRANE.

New York, Oct. 24.—The death of Captain Eddie Grant was a shock to baseball fandom. It brought the war closer home and caused us to think more of the heroism of those we know personally who are over there.

Grant was a credit to the national game he helped so much to uplift. He was among the first of the college boys to take up professional baseball, and it was their entrance into the game that raised the standard of the sport.

At the time Eddie decided to become a professional player, baseball was not in very high repute.

But the example set by Grant and other collegians changed the sentiment of the public and lifted the game to its present level. The benefits that have accrued to baseball by the entrance into it by Grant and his fellows are inestimable.

When Grant was in the Officers' Training Camp at Plattsburg, the news that he had obtained a commission as captain was received with joy by his many friends. He made a splendid officer, so his fellow officers said, and a great career was predicted for him.

His glorious death while advancing to the rescue of the famous "lost battalion" more than made good that prediction.

EDITORIAL PAGE OF THE BOSTON AMERICAN OCTOBER 24, 1918 BOSTON.

Give the President a Friendly Congress

His Success in All War-Time Activities Thus Far Justifies This Support

Copyright, 1918, Star Company.

In the protracted discussion with Germany of that nation's proposition for an early peace, President Wilson has so conducted himself as to win the plaudits of all nations. Our own people, with the exception of a few politicians, aligned with a hostile party, are back of him to a man. Among the masses, even any temporary hesitation as to the entire astuteness of his course has been almost immediately dispelled by his later magnificent assertions of vigorous Americanism.

We do not overstate the case when we declare that the American people applaud President Wilson in his quality of an international diplomat at a critical moment.

The war has now progressed more than four years. The United States has been a party to it for about eighteen months. We entered upon the conflict almost wholly unprepared. The chief rulers of our nation were men without military experience, and without militaristic ambitions.

Today we stand before the world a monument of military and naval efficiency. We have won the admiration and the approbation of our allies by the success by which we have hurried armed forces to their aid at a time when they were indeed critically imperilled. The fighting qualities of our soldiers have so impressed themselves upon our enemies that they are now suing for peace and addressing their appeals directly to the United States.

We may say, therefore, that in his conduct of the war, both in its political and its military phases, President Wilson has won not only the approval of his fellow-citizens, but the admiration and applause of the world in arms.

To the general chorus of approbation the one discordant note is contributed by a group of Republican politicians, who are expressing criticism of the President's every act in the vain hope that they may thereby stimulate voters in the pending Congressional elections to return a majority of the Republicans.

This work is undertaken for political purposes only. In it are engaged only the more extreme and uncompromising partisan politicians of that party. And even they do not dare make their attack upon the President's policy specific. They are afraid to question the magnificent successes that have been won in the field of arms by the American forces under this Administration, and they seek to curry favor for themselves by professing to be the most loyal and devoted of all the President's supporters in Congress—particularly in the Senate, where the more active of them have seats.

But pledging their own support to the President in all war-time activities, they are nevertheless urging upon the people the election of a Republican Congress.

This action is obviously insincere. The position of these men is irreconcilable. If President Wilson has, as is generally admitted, conducted the war activities of the country thus far with inspired genius and notable success, everything should be done to make his completion of this task as easy and as rapid as possible. He should not be confronted by a hostile majority in the House of Representatives, which holds the purse of the country. It is unfortunately true that in his own party he has not had an absolutely united support, but over this obstacle he has tactfully triumphed. Opposition of this sort, however, would seriously imperil the success of the policies by which he hopes to end the war, should he be confronted by a Republican House, or even by an exceedingly narrow Democratic majority.

It should be the duty of good citizens, of those who wish to win this war gloriously, and to make the recurrence of such another war impossible, to secure for the President in the next Congress a clear majority of the members of his own party.

This should be the easier because of the very general approbation of the methods and the results of his administration of public affairs thus far. If this is a case of going to the country for its verdict upon the method of prosecution of the war, what possible ground of complaint can Republicans present to turn voters away from their natural inclination to support President Wilson and his policies?

We have raised an army of unprecedented size, mainly by the methods of the selective draft, and yet with so little friction that there cannot be said to have been the slightest opposition to the military methods involved. And we have raised, equipped and drilled that army with a rapidity unparalleled in the history of nations. If those who seek to make political capital out of attacks upon the methods of the Wilson Administration will look back three years and discover how long it took Great Britain to put an army of any considerable proportions into the Continental field, they will have a clearer knowledge and appreciation of the extraordinary achievement of the American people under its present wise leadership.

This magnificent army we have been sending three thousand miles over seas to the European battlefields, until now we have, according to the statement of the Secretary of War, more than two million men over there. The dispatch of these troops has been carried on across an ocean and through narrow straits infested with enemy submarines. And yet not one American transport, under American convoy, has been destroyed by the foe on its way to Europe.

So notable a record as this was not accomplished except by the most extraordinary capacity in the administrative departments concerned with the raising and the transportation of our armies. What possible grounds have Republican politicians to go to the country and ask that the party which produced these administrative chiefs should not be permitted to elect and control the legislative body charged with their support?

It is incredible that the American people at the coming election should fail to elect a Democratic Congress. We urge upon them the support of Democratic candidates not because of any superstitious reverence for a party label, but because the President who has accomplished so much already and is charged with such tremendous responsibility in the future is entitled to have a legislative body back of him, the majority in which shall be composed of his political friends and supporters.

Everything Cut but the Check

THE waiter comes in with a roll
The size of a peppermint drop,
A spoonful of soup in a bowl
And a barely perceptible chop.
You say: "Mr. Hoover is right—
We all of us eat overmuch;
Far better that we should go light
On meat and potatoes and such.

"HEREAFTER we'll eat and grow fat
On half what we've eaten before,
And feel vastly better at that
Than we did when we ate a lot more.
It is nice of the restaurant men
To help Hoover out as they do,
And ration their victualing when
It must cut their incomes in two.

"THEIR portions are all of them small,
No more than a man can digest;
They do not serve butter at all,
Except upon written request.
They never let on that they know
That Hoover is treating them rough,
But cheerfully do they forego
The profit they made on the stuff."

BUT a thrill of revulsion you feel,
You suddenly cease to enthuse
When you come to the end of your meal
And the waiter brings in the bad news.
With a puzzled and wondering frown
You toy with your demi-tasse cup,
For the size of the meal has gone down
While the size of the check has gone up!

Enough Is Too Much

The German people have been advised by Ludendorff to pray for rain, but not for the reign of the Kaiser."

It Can't Be Done

Mr. Wilson might as well give up any hope of pleasing Senator Poindexter right now.

No Applause From Wilhelm

The first act, as Hindenburg said, was over last Spring, and now we have come to the scene when the villain and his accomplices are howling for mercy.

Ye TOWNE GOSSIP

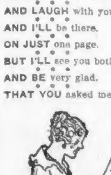
Registered U. S. Patent Office.

By K. C. B.

GREENVILLE, W. Va., Oct. 12, 1918.

DEAR K. C. B.—My father gets the paper and I read "Ye Towne Gossip" all of the time. I like it so much that I have put several of them in my scrap book for the soldiers, and, K. C. B., would you write something in your column that I could use for a frontispiece in my book? I think the soldiers would like to get a book with something you had written to them in the beginning. Sincerely, HELEN BALLARD.

MY DEAR Helen.
• • •
LET'S USE this.
• • •
JUST AS it is.
• • •
WITH YOUR letter up top.
• • •
AND MY answer here.
• • •
AND WHEN you get through.
• • •
BEING ALL excited.
• • •
BECAUSE YOUR letter's in the paper.
• • •
YOU CAN cut this out.
• • •
AND PASTE it in the book.
• • •
AND THE frontispiece.
• • •
WILL BE partly yours.
• • •
AND PARTLY mine.
• • •
AND FOR you.
• • •
WE'LL SAY to the soldier.
• • •
WHO READS the book.
• • •
THAT FOR every page.
• • •
AND EVERY line.
• • •
OF ALL of the things.
• • •
THAT ARE in the book.
• • •
THAT THERE goes to him.
• • •
A BIT of the heart.
• • •
THAT LOOKED through the eyes.
• • •
AND FOUND the things.
• • •
AND PROMPTED the hands.
• • •
TO PASTE them in.
• • •
AND FOR myself.
• • •
I'D LIKE to say.
• • •
TO OUR soldier friend.
• • •
WHO READS the book.
• • •
THAT THE kind of a book.
• • •
YOU ARE sending him.
• • •
IS THE sort of thing.
• • •
THAT ONE can't buy.
• • •
AT A passing store.
• • •
AND THAT knows no cost.
• • •
EXCEPT IN the joy.
• • •
THAT IT gives some one.
• • •
TO DO some thing.
• • •
FOR SOME one else.
AND IF the soldier.
• • •
MAY FIND in the book.
• • •
A BIT of verse.
• • •
OR A bit of prose.
• • •
OR AN artist's work.
• • •
IN BLACK and white.
• • •
YOU'D HAVE him know.
• • •
THAT WHATEVER it is.
• • •
HE FINDS therein.
• • •
THAT HE likes the most.
• • •
IS THE very thing.
• • •
YOU WOULD tell him of.
• • •
IF YOU were there.
• • •
OR HE were here.
• • •
AND SO it is.
• • •
THAT SUCH a book.
• • •
JUST A plain scrap book.
• • •
OR BITS of things.
• • •
THAT APPEALED to him.
• • •
WILL CARRY to him.
• • •
A BIT of yourself.
• • •
AND AWAY over there.
• • •
NEAR THE battle line.
• • •
HE MAY visit with you.
• • •
AND LAUGH with you.
• • •
AND I'LL be there.
• • •
ON JUST one page.
• • •
BUT I'LL see you both.
• • •
AND BE very glad.
• • •
THAT YOU asked me along.



I THANK you.

OUR MORALE IN HOME AND AT WORK

By Winifred Black

MORALE—did you ever hear the word before the war? I never did. I don't see how we got along without it at all, do you?

We had the morale all right, or the lack of it, but we didn't know what to call it, and somehow it does make things so much more real to give them a name.

You can't even be very sentimental about a rose if you don't know the name of it, and whether it's just one of a big family or a perfumed bunch of sweetness and dew and sunshine and color that couldn't grow anywhere in the world but just in your own particular garden on its own particular bush and bloom just in time for the birthday of the one you love best of all.

Morale—what an important thing it is, and what a time they do make over it in France and in England and in Germany, and in these days here in America.

If the morale is all right, the army's all right.

And if the morale is bad—good-by victory!

We've known that all the time, we women.

We've always known it and acted on the knowledge, too.

Men want facts and figures. How many cases of goods did you sell today? Who bought and what did they pay? That's all.

Women always want to know how you sold the goods and why, and what made the person who bought buy them—and they usually find out—and that's morale in business.

What's the reason that some families live in homes and others exist in houses, or roost in flats?

Morale, that's all, just morale.

Morale in the Home

Mother makes the morale of the home. If she's good-natured and efficient, and tolerant and broad-minded and intelligent, she'll have a place where good-natured, broad-minded, tolerant, intelligent people can live in peace and comfort.

If she's little and mean, and ill-tempered and jealous, and spiteful and intolerant and narrow-minded, she'll make a house that is so full of these things that no broad spirit can stay in it in any kind of comfort for five minutes.

She won't have to do a thing or say a word aloud or whisper a syllable to do it; she won't even have to lift her eyebrows or give an extra curl to her sarcastic upper lip. She'll do it by just being. That's morale.

You can't step inside the door of her poor, little, shut-up, fussy house without knowing that there's something the matter with it and with her and with every one in it, even if you're only a book agent or a poor, tired old woman selling home-made aprons or machine-made lace.

No Preaching

Morale—that's what makes some offices so easy to work with. I've seen an office dark and inconvenient and crowded and lacking in half of the things that go to make office work easy, and even the office boy had fairly to wear a muzzle to keep from whistling as he worked—he was so happy.

That's because the morale of the office was all right, and it was all right because the man at the head of it had the right morale—and he didn't have to preach or lecture or make rules, either. He just was—himself. And every one in the office felt at liberty to come to him with an idea or go to him with a suggestion, and there was a friendly, kindly, human atmosphere in the place that made it fun to be there.

I've seen other offices where the men who went into them hung up their good humor and their tolerance and their human kindness and their human interest in each other and in life and even in their work when they slipped on their office coats, and I'd rather be an attendant at the morgue than try to do any kind of constructive work in a place like that.

YANKEE IN FRANCE ANOTHER ENOCH ARDEN

How the soldier who came back from France like Tennyson's "Enoch Arden" and found his wife the bride of another man, returned to the trenches with his secret to give his life in battle, rather than wreck her new-found happiness, is touchingly told in the next,

"No Peace of Violence."
The Cesarian Operation.
Work for the Hangman.
Who Brought in America?

By Arthur Brisbane

(Copyright, 1918.)

Bad news for the whole country is the death of Dr. E. B. Cragin of New York. This hard, unselfish worker and teacher, died as many other doctors have done, a victim of hard work and duty. Thousands owe him their lives.

He announced his intention to retire, worn out by thirty years of incessant work and study. But the public needed him, and as thousands of other scientific doctors have done, he kept on, and died literally in harness, a martyr to science and an honor to his profession.

Dr. Cragin, the nation's great expert on childbirth, made to this writer shortly before his death a statement that will interest the public in these war times.

Said he: "You read about the Cesarian operation, bringing children into the world by a surgical operation. Many supposed that Caesar himself was thus born, but there is no historical basis for the belief.

"It is probably called the Cesarian operation, because Caesar issued the order that in a case of childbirth, where the mother must apparently die, thus sacrificing the child, there should be a surgical operation, bring the child into the world alive, although in those primitive times it meant quite certainly the mother's death.

"Caesar thought more of the Roman soldier that might be saved for the future, by so-called 'Cesarian operation' than he did about the mother."

Prince Maximilian says no "peace of violence" will be accepted. This is puzzling. It certainly has been a WAR of violence, there wasn't much conversation or negotiating when the war started.

And the world, outside of Prussia, is not very enthusiastic about a conversational peace, following a war of such violence.

It is likely that Prince Max, and his friends will hear from the German people even more energetically than from the President of the United States, before the "diplomatic conversations" cease.

The latest reply from Germany says that, whereas the people have had nothing to say hitherto about making war or peace, they are going to have the power to control declarations of war and peace hereafter.

Judging by what the people in Germany are saying, that evidently is no exaggeration. The Germans mean it, if the Kaiser does not.

In South Germany, where they have never wasted much love on Prussia, there is published a plain demand that those responsible for the war be turned over to the public hangman.

North German newspapers demand that the Kaiser abdicate and give the German people a chance to get out of the trouble into which he led them.

Maximilian Harden, a considerably more powerful Maximilian than "Prince Max," one of the most courageous writers in Europe, tells a great German audience that the Kaiser is beaten, ought to know it, and "take up his cross" and get out.

In any case, this country and the Allies will go ahead methodically, winding up the work to be done. The date of the next great American Liberty Loan is already fixed. It will be a big one, the money will be there and subscribers more numerous than ever. Four million five hundred thousand Americans subscribed to the first loan. Nine million five hundred thousand subscribed to the second loan. Seventeen millions subscribed to the third loan, and TWENTY-TWO MILLIONS subscribed to the last loan. The fifth loan next Spring will have more subscribers.

Twenty-two million bond buyers and twenty-three million men enlisted. That means many things, including peace on the permanent American plan.

Secretary Daniels asks six hundred million dollars to build, among other things, ten more superdreadnoughts, six battle cruisers and one hundred and forty smaller fighting craft—he will get the money.

The government has ordered thousands upon thousands of trucks and forty thousand tractors. They will be useful in war if the war goes on, and useful in peace, plowing the soil, clearing new farms here for American soldiers and helping our friends abroad.

The German people, already beaten and impoverished, are asked for fifteen thousand million marks of new money. A big price to pay for the tail-end of defeat. The Germans cannot be enthusiastic about it.

No wonder the German newspapers, including the Lokal Anzeiger, are asking "Who forced America into this war?"
